WINKLER'S GANGLAND REIGN ENDS

BULLETS FELL GANG LEADER

Volley of Shotgun Slugs "Erase" Gus Winkler, Capone Throne Heir.

OTHERS SLATED TO DIE

Gangland Seeks To Silence Those Who Know About Mail Robbery.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 10—The body of Gus Winkler, dapper heir to part of the affluence of the old Capone gang, lay in a morgue today—mute evidence of the gangland rule that dead men tell no tales.

In gangland they call talking to authorities the "squeal" and it was the theory of investigators that his enemies pumped four volleys of shotgun pellets into his body yesterday to keep him from telling what he knew about the $250,000 mail robbery in Chicago last December.

Winkler was the second person linked with the robbery in one way or another, to die. The other was Edgar B. Lebensberger, owner of a swanky club in Chicago's near North side. Lebensberger was found shot to death the other day shortly before it was revealed that he was under indictment in connection with the robbery. Some investigators said he might have been murdered, despite a coroner's verdict of suicide.

Others Marked for Death

And while Winkler's body lay in a mortuary there were newspaper reports that his slayers have marked for death, one or possibly two other men to silence them.

The report that Winkler, who had been in hiding since last Saturday, had intended to talk today with federal investigators, came from his blond widow.

Captain Dan Gilbert of the state's attorney's police expressed belief that Winkler "was the contact man between the actual mail robbers and the peddlers of the stolen bonds. It is significant that everyone but Winkler was indicted and it seems obvious that Winkler was an informer. He was the only man alive, apparently, who could put the finger on the gangsters who robbed the mail messenger."

Not Surprised

That Winkler himself knew the end of his short-lived power was near, was evidenced but two weeks ago when he was a prisoner at the Chicago detective bureau. A cell mate asked him to will him his diamond decorated watch.

"Sure," said the smiling Winkler. "Sure, I better put it in right away, brother, because I don't think I'll be here long."

Three killers motoring down the street in a green truck made his prediction come true. Methodically, they poked their guns from the machine and let go their shots. But he didn't talk. The "squeal" gangland presumably expected from him, died with him. His last words, after he had prayed were: "This is the end of a gangster."

'Strong Man' Is Critically Hurt by Car

Auto Strikes Oscar Diegle, 72, Famed for Unusual Feats.

Oscar Diegle, 72, famed throughout this section of the country years ago for his feats of weight-lifting and other tests of his title of "strong man," is not expected to live at the City hospital as a result of an automobile accident last night on North Main street. His condition today was such that he could not be X-rayed. The attending physician said this morning that the injuries suffered were not serious, but that shock, combined with his poor health, is responsible for his critical condition.

Forty years ago Mr. Diegle was known far and wide as a "strong man." He stood over six feet in height and weighed nearly 300 pounds. The only time that Mr. Diegle commercialized his unusual strength was when he traveled with the medicine show which the late Dr. J. A. McMurray took on the road for several years. He was willing at all times, however, to entertain his fellow townsmen with demonstrations of his unusual strength.

Painter By Trade

By trade Mr. Diegle was a painter and decorator, but for the last 10 years his health had been poor and he was forced to retire from an active life and live quietly with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Noll of 281 North Prospect street.

Unless he was feeling too ill, Mr. Diegle took a daily walk, and it was on one of these walks that he was injured. Last night about 7 he started to cross Main street from the east side, at the second alley north of the Erie railroad. D. L. Cramer of 292 Patten street, driver of an approaching car, struck the aged man as he moved slowly into the middle of the street. Mr. Cramer told police that the lights of a passing car blinded him and that he was unable to see Mr. Diegle.

Taken To Hospital

Mr. Cramer stopped his car, and later went to the City hospital where Mr. Diegle was taken in the W. C. Boyd ambulance. Relatives of Mr. Diegle said today that there probably would be no charges filed against Mr. Cramer.

Mr. Diegle has two brothers and two sisters, Rodney J. Diegle of Columbus, former sergeant-at-arms in the senate at Columbus, H. R. Diegle of Wilson avenue, Mrs. Noll with whom he lived, and Mrs. Nelia Smith of Cherry street.

All of Mr. Diegle's life has been spent in Marion. He was born in Marion county and with the exception of the years he was with the McMurray medicine show, has made Marion his home.

The career of Gus Winkler as a power in gangdom ended when he was assassinated on the Chicago street shown in the Associated Press photo above. Gun blasts which put 65 wounds in his body roared from a passing truck as he was about to enter the door shown at the extreme right after leaving his car, shown in the left foreground. The International News photo below pictures Winkler in a recent courtroom appearance.

OPPOSES NEW TRIAL FOR W. W. DURBIN

Special Prosecutor Sears Carries Case To Lima Court of Appeals.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, O., Oct. 10—Opposing a recent decision by Judge David Thomas of Marietta, trial judge in the state's case against W. W. Durbin, U. S. treasury registrar, who stands convicted here of circulating unsigned election material, Special Prosecutor J. D. Sears carried the case to the court of appeals at Lima Monday.

The special prosecutor's action is in the face of a motion on file by Prosecutor W. J. Schwenck, Durbin's co-defense counsel, to nolle the case.

The new trial was granted by Judge Thomas on the grounds that the verdict is not sustained by the evidence introduced during the trial.

Sears charges in carrying the case to the higher court that there was error in sustaining the new trial motion. Several other errors of a similar nature are also charged.

Durbin was convicted on a charge of causing the circulation of unsigned newspaper clippings taken from the Ohio Examiner against the candidacies of Judge Charles F. Schaber of Bucyrus and John A. Key of Marion, to voters of the Eighth congressional district.

Fire Prevention Week Observance Urged in Marion

Participation in fire prevention week, continuing through Saturday, was asked of all Marion residents today by Owen A. Sifritt, acting chief of the Marion fire department.

Householders were asked to inspect basements, attics and all nooks and crannies for possible fire traps or incendiary materials. Such materials, if necessary to have around the house, should be kept in containers and not exposed to sparks, the acting chief urged.

Firemen will inspect buildings in the business district on Wednesday and Thursday as a phase of local observance of the week.

Marion Red Cross Chapter Lays Plans for Roll Call

Drive To Be Held Between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving; Goal Is $6,000.

Plans for organizing approximately 300 workers in a campaign to bring the Red Cross roll call appeal to all residents of Marion, both city and county, during the period from Armistice day to Thanksgiving day are now being made by chapter officials.

The annual roll call, to finance the Marion county chapter's activities in 1934, will be staged principally on four days in the period between the two holidays. The exact time of the drive's concentration has not been set.

Budget Calls for $6,000

A budget of $6,000 for 1934 work has been set by chapter officials, C. F. Bronson, president, said, with all hopes set on the roll call to produce this amount. Officials expect the roll call proceeds to finance the nursing service, the nutrition committee's work, the house service and the office work.

This will differ from last year's set up in that the nutrition committee, last year was financed partly by the Marion Welfare association and partly through efforts of nutrition committee members.

Its work was not included in last year's chapter budget.

This year, however, with no assurance that a welfare drive will be staged, this committee is being provided for in the chapter budget.

Need 2,000 Members

A quota of 2,000 memberships has been set for the roll call. Of each membership fee received, 50 cents will be sent to national Red Cross headquarters and the remainder will be used in the local chapter's work. Officials asserted that only 50 cents is sent the national headquarters of each membership, regardless of whether that membership brings in $1 or $100.

In the case of amounts received over $1, official said, it is counted as one membership, with the amount over $1 being counted as a subscription. The amount sent the national headquarters is used to help finance the relief work in every disaster-stricken area and the multiple duties of the Red Cross.

Ann Queen is chairman of the roll call organization [illegible] expected to be [illegible] next few weeks.

STORMY CUBA READY TO OVERTHROW GRAU

Opposition Grows Rapidly and Change of Regime Appears Likely.

By The Associated Press

HAVANA, Oct. 10—The hook of governmental overthrow which has snatched more than one of his predecessors of Cuba's stormy political stage was extended today for President Ramon Grau San Martin.

As it was held out on a wave of shifting public opinion, the veteran Nationalist leader, Carlos Mendieta, listening from the wings, heard a rising clamor for his reappearance.

The Grau regime, fighting desperately to stave off retirement, held out compromise after compromise in the hope of quieting the shouts of the opposition.

The militarized university youngsters backing Grau again ratified their support of his government, but support in other quarters appeared rapidly crumbling toward collapse.

WREN WINS FIGHT TO REGAIN POST IN POLICE DEPARTMENT

OHIO HOLDUP NETS $68,000

Police Have Few Clues in Robbery of Warren Bank Messengers.

MONEY WAS FOR PAYROLLS

Trio of Gunmen Work Swiftly and Flee Before Alarm is Spread.

By The Associated Press

WARREN, O., Oct. 10—A daylight bank robbery in which $68,000 was whisked from the possession of two Second National bank messengers without a shot being fired left authorities with only slender clues today.

Armed posses raced up and down northeastern Ohio roads last night but failed to locate the trail of the three escaping robbers, who carried off with them two boxes of currency, consigned from the federal reserve bank of Cleveland to the Second National bank where it was to be used for the payrolls of local concerns.

Charles Wolfe and Frank Fisher, the messengers, were held up by three men directly in front of the bank late yesterday. Last night they examined photographs at police headquarters in Cleveland in an attempt to identify the trio.

Police said the three, after obtaining the money, hurried to their car, which apparently had been left without a driver and sped away before pursuits could be organized.

The funds were insured by both banks.

Wolfe and Fisher had parked their car near the bank and were about to enter the building when they were confronted by the robbers, who told them, "you know what this is."

The messengers saw a revolver in the hand of one of the robbers. A paper sack partly concealed what appeared to be a machine gun carried by the other.

Wolfe and Fisher raised their hands, dropping the boxes, and one of the gunmen took Wolfe's gun.

The currency was in denominations of from $1 to $20.

The amount stolen was the largest in a series of Ohio bank holdups since the first of the month. The First National bank of St. Marys was robbed of $12,050 and robbers took $700 from the People's Bank at Gambier and $200 from the bank of Trenton.

Green Sees Agreement To Reopening of Codes for Revision in Line With Labor's Demands.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—Administration agreement soon to a reopening of existing NRA codes so wages may be increased and hours shortened is looked for by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor.

Green based his belief on statements made before the federation convention by two persons high in administration councils. Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the labor advisory board and Secretary Frances Perkins of the labor department.

Last week Secretary Perkins said we cannot stop with the present minimum wages and maximum hours. Yesterday, Wagner said some of the minimum scales should be higher, that perhaps wages in higher brackets should be fixed too and that a 40 hour week would not reabsorb the unemployed.

"Those statements," Green said, "certainly are susceptible of being interpreted to mean that the administration is ready to revise the codes."

"One of the speakers was a cabinet member. The other was appointed to his present post by the President, and as one of the authors of the recovery act, probably knows as much about its purpose and what the President wants to accomplish with it as anybody else."

The federation president, who often has contended that existing wage and hour provisions are not satisfactory, added this forecast:

"The convention this week will insist upon a general revision of the codes to increase purchasing power further."

A six-hour day, five-day week likely will be asked he added.

Convention delegates in the second week of their meeting, saw ad-

TRAPPED MAN KILLS OFFICER

Gunman Wanted in Golf Course Slaying Eludes Toledo Posse.

SHOOTS WAY FROM HOUSE

Although Wounded, Suspect Makes Escape in Running Battle.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 10—A suspected principal in the daring golf links murder which startled Toledo last month, shot his way to freedom through a group of officers early today, wounding one of them fatally.

The fugitive, identified by officers as Floyd Baldwin, was reported wounded in the leg as he dashed through the trap prepared for him at a residence.

The slain officers was Deputy Sheriff Leo Flanagan, who died on a hospital operating table soon after the encounter.

The golf links murder occurred on Sept. 12 at the remote fifteenth tee of the Sylvana golf course. Two men appeared at the tee and attempted to hold up a group of six golfers.

One Man Killed

One of them, John L. Parker, an insurance man, realized, and succeeded in knocking the weapon from the hand of one of the criminals in the course of a desperate struggle.

Nevertheless, Parker was fatally shot, and the two men made good their escape. Police soon took evidence to the grand jury, however, upon which Harry A. Patterson, 35, and Baldwin were indicted for first degree murder. Patterson was arrested, and an unrelenting search has been carried on for Baldwin.

Officers were tipped, they said, that Baldwin could be found at a certain house, and went there this morning seeking him. They surrounded the house before Baldwin appeared, the officers said.

The officers said they identified themselves to Baldwin, whereupon the fugitive opened fire. The fire was returned and it was reported Baldwin had appeared at the home of a relative seeking a bandage for a leg wound.

Search Goes On

Three posses of officers mapped out a systematized search for Baldwin this morning. One group concentrated upon a woods at the edge of the city near a house where Baldwin once lived.

Another went to a thicket some distance from the city where two men were reported to have disappeared soon after the shooting occurred this morning. The third group remained in the neighborhood where Baldwin was apprehended this morning one deputy crawling under the house on reports from neighbors that Baldwin had been sleeping there for several weeks.

Flanagan died on an operating table just as his brother Joseph Flanagan, a newspaper reporter, lay at his side prepared to give a blood transfusion in a final effort to save the wounded officer.

ORDERED OFF FORCE 90 DAYS

Commission Changes Dismissal To Suspension; Found Guilty of Charge.

ENDS TWO-DAY HEARING

Modification Made in View of 17 Years on Local Force.

Patrolman John Wren's dismissal from the police force was modified to a 90 day suspension by the civil service commission this morning at the conclusion of a two day hearing on Wren's appeal from Safety Director Emery Murphy's ouster order, given a month ago.

The commission found Wren guilty of spending 28 minutes in the Marion theater, off his district, on Aug. 31, but modified the dismissal in view of the fact he has been a member of the police force 17 years and would lose not only his job but his pension rights by dismissal.

The commission's ruling, accepted by attorneys for Safety Director Emery Murphy and Wren, amounts to reinstatement of the patrolman. His 90-day suspension period, without pay, was made retroactive, as of Aug 31, the date on which Chief Marks suspended him. Safety Director Murphy's dismissal order was made on Sept. 5.

Guilty As Charged

In announcing the decision, W. N. Harder, chairman of the commission, said "the commission unanimously reached the conclusion that Mr. Wren is guilty as charged and should be reprimanded." Addressing Wren, Mr. Harder said, "As one of the oldest men in the department, you should be an example to younger members."

The commission announced its decision this morning after attorneys for both sides had waived arguments following an hour's conference of commission members and attorneys. Testimony of witnesses was completed last night at 8:15 in the municipal courtroom.

In taking testimony yesterday, the commission heard not only charges and denials about Wren's conduct as a patrolman, but also testimony that patrolmen frequently rest themselves in Marion theater seats while on duty, and that the police officers knew of this practice and did not object.

The hearing brought out that Wren's dismissal was based on the charge that he spent 28 minutes off his district in the Marion theater on Aug. 31. Wren testified he spent eight minutes, not 28, in the theater, and asserted that it was common practice of patrolmen to stop in all theater in Marion for short periods.

Limit Testimony

It was by strict enforcement of its ruling that "only John Wren is on trial here today," that the commission was able to confine the testimony to what occurred on the date Wren was charged with spending 28 minutes in the theater off his district. An apparent effort to bring names of others on the police force into the testimony was made by attorneys for Wren, who argued that they wished to explore for possible personal reasons that some police officers might have had for seeking Wren's removal, and to determine whether Wren's visit to the theater was an unusual act for a patrolman. Solicitor Patton also attempted to bring more into the testimony than what occurred on Aug. 31, making broad inferences in his questions that Wren had been reprimanded, warned and cautioned by police officers regarding his conduct prior to the alleged act that resulted in his dismissal.

The key witness for Director Murphy was Police Captain Ira Shrock, who testified that he saw Wren enter the theater and leave 28 minutes later. It was Captain Shrock who took Wren to police station where he was suspended by Chief Marks. Captain Shrock's written report covering this incident was adopted by Director Murphy as the basis for the charge of negligence upon which he dismissed Wren.

Shrock's Report

Captain Shrock's report, in full, follows:

"(On Aug. 31) I took particular

Fear for Lives of Seamen in Storm at Sea

By The Associated Press

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 10—The fate of two score seamen remained uncertain today as marine officials attempted to learn the toll of a storm that whirled up the Atlantic seaboard over the week-end and blew itself out north of Newfoundland.

Ships were asked to keep a sharp lookout for 21 men of the Greek steamer Annuola, believed to have foundered Saturday about 600 miles east of Cape Lookout, N. C.

The Newfoundland schooner Telle put into Yarmouth with her flag at half-mast. The cook, Walter Butland of Sydney, N. S., had been washed from the ship's deck by a huge wave that sent the little craft on her beam ends while all hands manned the pumps at the height of Saturday night's gale.

Off the southwestern tip of Nova Scotia an unidentified derelict drifted bottom up in the shipping lane. Her three masts apparently had been snapped at the deck.

The belief that the derelict might be the long overdue Durin, out of Baltimore with salt for Yarmouth, N. C., was dissipated by Captain J. T. Cruickshanks of Halifax, owner of the Durin.

The Durin was believed to have been a victim of a previous storm. Cruickshanks said he had given up hope for her crew of 10, including his younger brother, Nelson, 22.

The United States coast guard reported the Boston trawler Quincy, presumably a victim of the week-end blow, was being towed to Halifax for repairs.

FLORIDA CASTS VOTE ON DRY AMENDMENT

Will Be Thirty Third To OK Repeal or First Against It.

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 10—Florida voted today to decide whether the state would be the thirty-third to sanction repeal of the Eighteenth amendment or the first in the country to oppose it.

Repealists sent out a last hour plea through Postmaster General James A. Farley, and Governor Dave Sholtz who spoke here last night.

Farley called upon Florida to join "the parade of states marching toward early accomplishment of repeal" and predicted that the state would go two to one for repeal.

He said Florida should favor repeal to "show confidence in President Roosevelt." And to hasten the return of prosperity so more persons "can take Florida vacations."

Governor Sholtz called upon Floridians to "fulfill the pledge of the Democratic party and vote for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment."

Home Heating Air Circulator Invented by Marion Man Goes on Market This Week

Furnace Attachment Is Devised To Assure Maximum Comfort.

A Marion man's invention of a forced air circulation device adaptable to any type of furnace is meeting with acclaim as it makes its introductory bow to the public this week.

The device, known as the Mohr-Air forced circulation, is the invention of Martin M. Mohr of 349 South State street, and was developed after long, tedious research.

Mohr based his efforts on the successful use of forced air circulation in large buildings, theaters and, most recently, in de luxe passenger trains. His main object was to make it possible for the home owner to obtain the same benefits at the least possible expense.

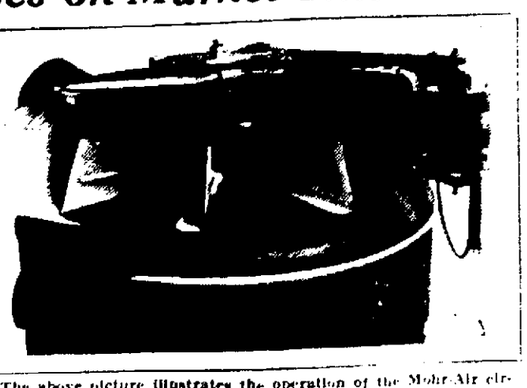
Principal benefits of forced circulation, as provided by the Mohr-Air circulator, are that it equalizes room temperatures, eliminates drafts, forces heated air to the most remote rooms of the house, cleans and purifies the air in the house and removes the hazard of an overheated furnace, Mohr claims.

Company Incorporates

The circulator is being marketed by the Mohr-Air Co. of Marion, incorporated recently with a capitalization of $25,000. The incorporators are Mohr, H. E. Thomas of Prospect and A. J. Berry of Marion.

The distribution agency for Marion county has been given to the home appliance department of Frank Bros. department store. P. L. Brobston is manager of the department and will be assisted in introducing the device by M. B. Reed, heating engineer.

The Mohr-Air Co. is now negotiating with the Fairfield Manufacturing Co. of Marion on a contract under which that company would manufacture and assemble the device. Part of this work is now being done by the Fairfield company, while other local concerns are working on other parts of the circulator.



The above picture illustrates the operation of the Mohr-Air circulator. Cold air is drawn into the lower part of the furnace through a series of glass filters which clean the air. It is then warmed and driven through the outlet pipes into the house by the eight-bladed fan. On the upper right is the electric motor which powers the fan. Below is the furnacestat, which starts and stops the fan according to the temperature requirements of the house.

Operation of the circulator is simple, Mohr explained. It can be installed in any type furnace with no reconstruction or vital changes being necessary in the heating plant.

Advantages Explained

Principal points in the circulator's operation were outlined by Mohr as follows:

All air in the house is thoroughly dry-cleaned when taken into the furnace through a series of glass filters, which remove about 90 per cent of the dust and pollen from the air, thereby protecting draperies, curtains and rugs, and other household goods.

This cleaned air is then heated and delivered into each outlet pipe by an eight-bladed fan which drives the air with sufficient force to send it into every nook and cranny of the house without adding in any way to the coal consumption of the heating plant. In fact, Mohr claims the device will result in a marked saving in coal or gas bills.

Frequent Change of Air

Use of the circulator changes the air in the house from [illegible] times an hour, Mohr said, whereas it ordinarily is changed [illegible] every two or three hours. The air being in motion also acts as a stimulant to jaded furnace, Mohr said, and prevents that "stuffy" atmosphere.

A furnacestat on the side of the heating plant controls the operation of the fan, starting or stopping the fan whenever the house temperature drops or rises above a desired degree.

The device is powered by a one-eighth horsepower electric motor mounted near the top of the furnace. Operation of the device is practically noiseless, Mohr said.

Future of forced air circulation is assured, Mohr predicted, with expectations of it equaling radio and electric refrigeration in marketing value.

CLASS MEETS AS CONTEST CLOSES

Special to The Star

LARUE, Oct. 10—Mrs. Riley Hoagland, assisted by Mrs. Howard Bailey entertained the In His Name class of the M. E. Sunday school at the close of a contest at the home of the former Friday night. Thirty members and 10 guests were present. A new membership contest was started with Mrs. Elvin La Rue and Mrs. Bernard Lyttel as captains. A program was given as follows: devotions, Mrs. C. W. Shearer; readings, Peggy Jean Keefe, Demaril Hafer and Mrs. T. W. McElheny. A tribute was given to the contest winners by Mrs. Howard Bailey. Mrs. C. M. Barden will entertain Oct. 20 at an all day meeting.

LOOK, JIM—IT IS THE SOAP! I USED RINSO IN THE WASHER TODAY AND THE CLOTHES CAME SO WHITE I DIDN'T NEED TO BOIL THEM
YOU ARE CLEVER!
I USE RINSO FOR TUB WASHING—IT SAVES SCRUBBING
RINSO MAKES CLOTHES LAST 2 OR 3 TIMES LONGER
RINSO'S GREAT FOR DISHES—SAVES THE HANDS
For the whitest wash you ever saw—for the easiest washday ever—try Rinso. It's all you need—no washboard, no boiler. Rinso alone gets clothes 4 or 5 shades whiter—safely. Clothes last 2 or 3 times longer—you'll save lots of money!
Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water. Makers of 40 famous washers recommend it. Marvelous for dishes, too—and for all cleaning. So easy on the hands!

Care of the First Teeth Important.

"BRUSH YOUR teeth twice a day and see your dentist at least twice a year" is familiar advice heard over the radio Yet I wonder how many listeners in the nation-wide hookup heed this warning

In the sixteenth century, so-called dentists advised that "to keep teeth healthy eat a mouse once a month and fumigate the mouth with smoke from onion seeds" I can readily understand why such revolting advice as this should be spurned but it is difficult to understand why any sensible person should fail to follow the advice of the modern dentist

No one will deny that there has been a marked change in the medical and dental world as regards disease In former years every effort was made to cure disease Today emphasis is placed upon the prevention of disease as well as the cure

At one time the extraction of diseased and decayed teeth was a common dental practice Today the dentist helps prevent decay and so avoids the necessity of filling teeth With proper dental care this can be accomplished

To keep good teeth through life is only possible when adequate dental care is given in childhood The visit to the dentist should be made before the first back teeth the molars appear If everyone were given this early attention there is no doubt that fewer teeth would be lost in adult life and serious constitutional diseases would be avoided

In addition to the necessary hygiene and care of the teeth proper dental health requires a well balanced diet The diet is especially important for young children before the appearance of the permanent teeth

Bear in mind that a diet lacking in certain vitamins leads to cavity formation and diseased teeth For this reason fruit juices are advised for the infant as early as the fourth week. Strained orange juice or tomato juice, and cod liver oil, given in early childhood will assure your child healthy and strong teeth

I cannot overemphasize the importance of periodic visits to the dentist for the child and adult. Care of the temporary teeth will insure strong and sturdy teeth.

Do not be misled by the thought that since the first teeth are temporary they require little attention. That is wrong Let me warn you again against neglect of the teeth. Do not assume that since you have no pain or discomfort your teeth are healthy Whether they are or not only the dentist can determine

Homemaker's Question Box

Question—I am lengthening a last year's coat. There is a fold in the hem in it, but a definite mark shows where the hem was turned last year. How can I remove the crease?

Answer—It is difficult to answer this question without knowing first what caused the crease. It might be soil, it might be a crease steamed in to the material when the coat hem was pressed originally, or it might be that the hem is faded of the material is badly worn off.

If the mark is a matter of soil, I would suggest ripping the hem out and having the whole coat cleaned. Be sure to give the dark line extra attention if you are doing the cleaning yourself. If it is being done, call the attention of the cleaner to the fact that you are changing the hem line.

If the mark is just a crease steamed in when the coat was last pressed, it will need to be steamed out again. This may be done at home. Turn a hot iron upside down, cover it with a wet piece of cheesecloth and while it is steaming place the material on the iron wrong side down against the cheesecloth so the steam passes up through the crease. If the crease is persistent, brush it with a medium stiff brush while the steam is coming through. Continue until the crease disappears.

If the surface of the material is worn off to make the crease, there is little you can do. If the design of the coat and the type of material will permit, a fine tuck may be made to include the crease, or several rows of stitching about ¼ inch apart may be used as a decoration and so placed that they will cover the crease.

Lecture-Recital Club Opens Season with Musical Program

A PROGRAM of piano and voice groups presented by Miss Miriam Otto, pianist, and Franklin Bens, tenor opened the 1933-34 season for the Marion Lecture-Recital club last night in the Hotel Harding ballroom. A fair-sized audience composed of club members and friends heard the concert by the two talented young artists, both of whom are from Cincinnati, and expressed its appreciation in their generous applause. Both Miss Otto and Mr. Bens responded to encores following their last numbers. Miss Grace Kline, president of the club, welcomed the members and patrons in a short address.

Miss Otto's program ranged from Chopin to Debussy. She played spiritedly and spared nothing of her skill and talent. Her performance of Chopin's nine preludes was notable for its fine phrasing and flowing motion and she was equally at ease in her more modern selections. Miss Otto also played the accompaniments for Mr. Bens, displaying the same skill and talent as in her solos and added to the enjoyment of his numbers with her sympathetic support.

Mr. Bens possesses an unusual and pleasing voice and sings with ease, clarity and strength. His choice of German, French and English songs provided a pleasing variation in the program.

Mr. Bens opened the [illegible] with an aria from "Don G[illegible]" by Mozart. His remaining group included "Befreit," Strauss, "Jungling und der Quelle," Schubert, and "Gesellenlied," [illegible] "Nell," Faure, "L'heure douce" Staub, "Nuit d' Etoiles," Widor, "Ariette," Vidal; "At the Cry of the First Bird," Guion, "Do Not Go My Love" Hageman, "The Fairy Dance" O'Brien, and Love Went A-[illegible] Bridge.

Miss Otto chose for her opening number Chopin's nine preludes and her group included 'Etude Tableau No. 5, Rachmaninoff and "La Joyeuse," Debussy.

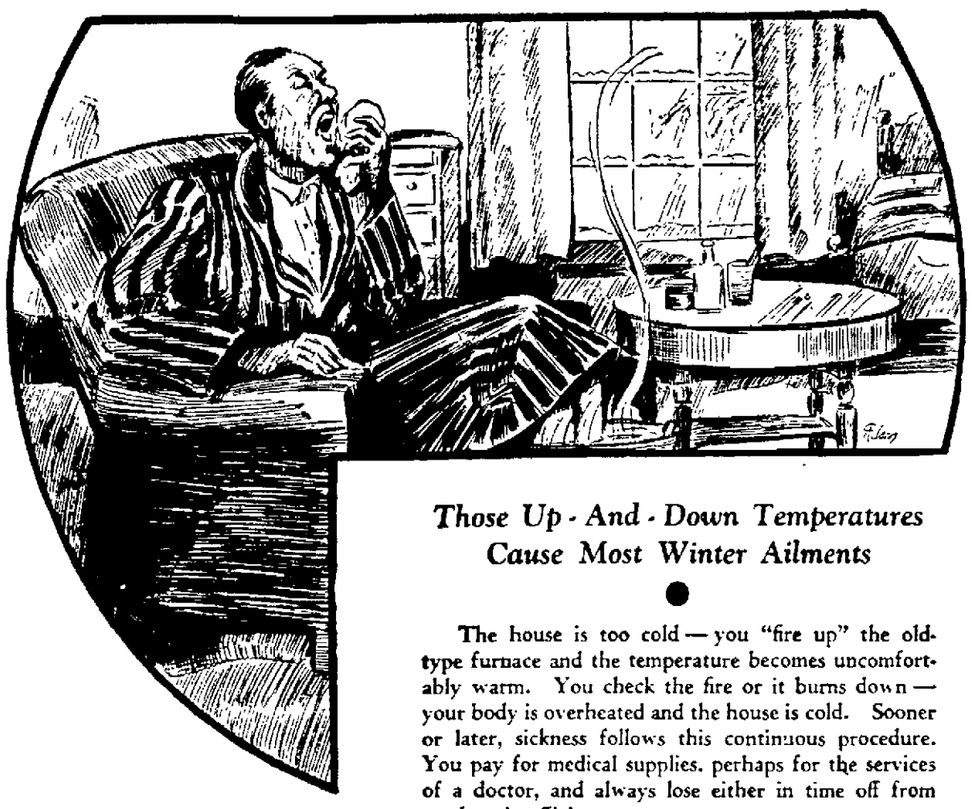
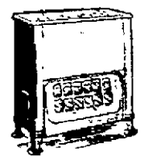
Get the Facts! Our Engineers Will Furnish Reliable Information On Your Heating Problems—Without Charge

Gas Heat Lowers Medical Expenses



Those Up-And-Down Temperatures Cause Most Winter Ailments

The house is too cold—you "fire up" the old-type furnace and the temperature becomes uncomfortably warm. You check the fire or it burns down—your body is overheated and the house is cold. Sooner or later, sickness follows this continuous procedure. You pay for medical supplies, perhaps for the services of a doctor, and always lose either in time off from work or in efficiency.



A Moore's circulating gas heater is recommended for homes without a central heating plant. Furnishes an even heat economically to one or several rooms. Convenient terms.

NRA

Gas Heat Presents Another Picture

This expense, discomfort and aggravation are not found in homes enjoying the even, automatically-controlled temperature of gas heat. Neither do such families pay excessive cleaning and redecorating charges made necessary by the damages of smoke, soot, ashes and furnace dirt. They are relieved of the expense of storing fuel, tending the furnace and removing ashes. These many incidental expenses bring the cost of using ordinary fuel well above the amount paid for the greater convenience of gas heat.

When you know ALL the facts, you will want gas heat as a measure of economy. Phone The Gas Company for complete information on how to—

It is only happy people who want to stand in the light. Caroline pushed down the switch, and was glad of the dark.

She cried bitterly, crouching down by the bed and pressing her face into the pillow lest Patsy Ann should hear. Patsy had come upstairs and was moving about in the room across the tiny landing. Caroline cried all her tears away. She had held them in for a long time, now they were all gone, and she felt rather like a ghost, weak and light and insubstantial.

She went to the window and opened it.

Something in Caroline's mind said quickly, "It's no good crying over spilled milk." She thought that was very odd.

She leaned out farther. A faint damp breath moved the trees across the road. Over the edge of the silence came the sound of footsteps coming nearer.

To Be Continued.

ert Arbuthnot had already commandeered. He was a distant cousin of Caroline's, and trustee to both of them. He was an able lawyer and a blinding bore.

Caroline maintained that he only came to see them when he had something unpleasant to impart with regard to their investments. On this occasion he left Patsy the poorer by about 20 pounds a year, and made it impossible for Caroline to meet the Van Bergs.

In July Caroline went north to visit her father's sister, who kept open house every year in the Highlands. It was while she was at Craigellachie that Jim wrote to say he was in London. He was given a warm invitation to join Mrs. Ogilvie's party.

Caroline passed quickly over the time when they waited for his answer. He would come, of course he would come. They would go for tremendously long walks, and tell each other all the things that you couldn't put into letters.

If he got Aunt Grace's letter on Wednesday morning he might catch the night train and come right through. Caroline had a day about in a queer warm dream of happiness which it hurt her to think about now.

Because Jim hadn't come. He hadn't written for three days, and then it was just a few lines to Grace Ogilvie. He thanked her very much, and he hoped perhaps he might be able to get up later on, but just at the moment he was afraid he couldn't spare the time. He didn't write to Caroline at all, not until the beginning of August, and then it wasn't what you could call a letter: just half a dozen lines, all scrawled in a hurry.

"I may be able to get off on the 8th if Grace can still have me. I shall probably take a steamer up the coast."

AND that was all. It might have been written to a mere acquaintance. It wasn't the kind of a letter to be Jim's last letter to his loving Caroline. It gave her a very desolate, grey, hopeless feeling. It made her feel, quite illogically, that Jim was drowned. The Alice Arden had sailed on the eighth of August and had gone to bits on the Elson rocks.

That was a very frightening thing to hear. It seemed to make it certain that Jim had sailed on the Alice Arden. A cold shiver passed over Caroline. She put the letters together again with hands that moved a little stiffly. When she went over to put them away, the room felt very cold.

She drew a sobbing breath as she shut the drawer. It felt as if she were shutting Jim away. The tears began to run down her face, and all

Given in Marriage

BY ADELE GARRISON

Dicky, Badly Injured, Is Found by the Rescue Party.

THERE was an inflection in Harry Underwood's voice as he asked Hugh Grantland where he passed Dicky, in the race of which Avis had spoken, that suddenly roused my fears always too ready to be spurred.

Of what was he afraid, this big man whose personal bravery is a matter for pride to all his intimates? I caught my breath as I waited for Hugh's answer.

"You couldn't call it a race. Hugh said, ignoring, or probably not having heard the comment which Avis had made. "He started first, but I passed him, although he was going at a pretty good pace. But I was in a hurry to get back—for several reasons."

The last words came almost as an afterthought, and were spoken in much lower terms than the rest. They were not particularly flattering to Avis, but the conviction came to me that he was not thinking of her at all—that his anxiety to get back quickly was because he was eager for the conversation with my father, which both men now were carrying on in low tones, unintelligible to the rest of us.

"It doesn't matter whether it was a race or not," Harry Underwood began, but Hugh interrupted him sharply.

"You're right," he said. "He ought to be here long before now, for I passed him not three miles from here."

"We'll go have a look-see," Mr. Underwood said, and my father said something to Hugh which sent him forward to Harry's side.

To Find Dicky and "Ede."

"Better take my car. It's on the drive; just has to be turned around," he said. And the older man answered, "That's oke by me," as he propelled his powerful body toward the car at a pace much swifter than his usual lounging gait.

I did not speak, but Hugh must have sensed the sudden terror that was mine, for he paused as he passed me.

"They've probably run out of gas," he said, and I knew he meant the commonplace words as a distinct message of reassurance. "But I have plenty, and I always carry a device for transferring gas from one tank to another when emergency calls for such a procedure. So you'll see us back very shortly."

Fear of an Accident

"Thank you!" I said, and it was all I could do to get the words out. For I did not believe that Hugh really thought lack of gas to be the reason for this rescue party, with the haste accompanying its departure.

Dicky, careless to the extreme about most details of living, is meticulous in his attention to the needs of his car. He is a devotee, repeating the ritual, "Gas, oil, water, tires and battery," every time he takes his car out. I was very sure that, whatever the reason for the delay in my husband's home coming, lack of gas was not to be considered.

I was sure of something else, also. If Harry Underwood and Hugh Grantland believed Dicky to be loitering along in the moonlight, perhaps parking the car for a chat with Edith, or a kiss or two, neither of them would have proposed going after the car. The instinct of all men to stand by each other in peccadilloes, as well as a desire to protect me from the possible discovery that Dicky had loitered purposely upon the way home, would have kept them from this proposed trip.

There remained but one alternative, to my heated imagination, inflamed with the vague threats of Lee Chow and my father's odd behavior following my interview with the high born Chinese. I scouted the more probable theories of tire trouble or some other accident to the car, and made up my mind that Hugh, Harry and my father shared an apprehension of some threatened danger to my husband.

I clenched my hands into my palms as Harry and Hugh climbed into the car, and Hugh turned it and started down the driveway at a furious pace. But I made no outcry, and was even able to smile at Avis when she nodded her head with a satisfied little chuckle, and said:

"I don't believe Mr. Graham and Miss Farfax will thank those men for coming after them. Oh! Yes Mummy!" as her mother gave a shocked little exclamation. "I know I ought to have said that. Please forgive me, Mrs. Graham."

But although I gave her a laughing assurance of it, I have no evidence to her little speech. All my faculties were keyed up on the road ahead, which presently dashed back Mr. Grantland's car. As it came in sight I saw Dicky was slumped against the door, his head with blood hanging grotesquely over him.

Forget all the creaming when you make cakes with CRISCO

It wouldn't tire a child to make a cake with Crisco. Crisco is already creamed, you see, so naturally it's the perfect shortening for speedy cakes!

Here's how Crisco helps you save 5 minutes and a lot of hard arm-work—

First, put Crisco into the mixing bowl. Then pour in all the sugar. And if it's a whole-egg cake, break in the eggs, too.

Then beat heartily. It's easy because Crisco is the creamy, velvety shortening. In 3 minutes you'll get a fluffy, well-blended mixture. (It takes 8 minutes with a stiff hard shortening!) And you'll love the feathery cake that you'll get!

Crisco protects digestion, too

Before you French-fry another potato or make another pie—think this over: Crisco digests quickly. Crisco is the creamy, digestible shortening.

Crisco gives you crispy fried foods good to eat—and good for you! Crisco pastry is light and flaky—digestible! Why? Because Crisco's secret process turns pure digestible oils into fluffy, digestible Crisco. And it stays digestible for months!

Crisco is not sold loose or in bulk

When you buy, look for the vacuum-sealed can with the familiar blue-and-white Crisco label. It's your health protection against dust and contamination. And it's the only way you can get genuine Crisco—the pure, wholesome fat that digests quickly. For Crisco is not sold loose or in bulk.

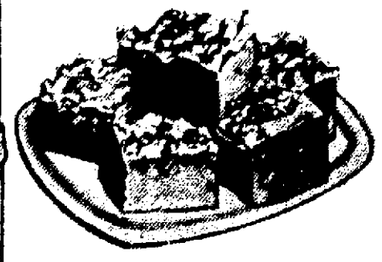
CHOCOLATE PEPPERMINT CAKE

The delicious cake exhibited at the Cooking School last week

½ cup Crisco
1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1½ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup sour milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat Crisco, sugar, and egg yolks briskly. (No creaming needed with Crisco, the creamy shortening!) Add chocolate, melted. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with sour milk. Mix well. Add vanilla. Pour into square (9½ inch) or oblong cake pan, rubbed with Crisco. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 50 to 60 minutes. Cool.

Easy Frosting: Put 1½ cups granulated sugar, 2 unbeaten egg whites and ⅓ cup water to cook over boiling water. Beat 4 minutes with Dover beater. Add ½ teaspoon peppermint flavoring (or ¼ cup crushed after-dinner mints or patties). Beat until thick. Remove from boiling water. Continue beating until frosting will spread. Cover top and sides of cake. Melt 2 squares unsweetened chocolate. Blend with 1 teaspoon Crisco. Pour over cake, letting chocolate run down sides.



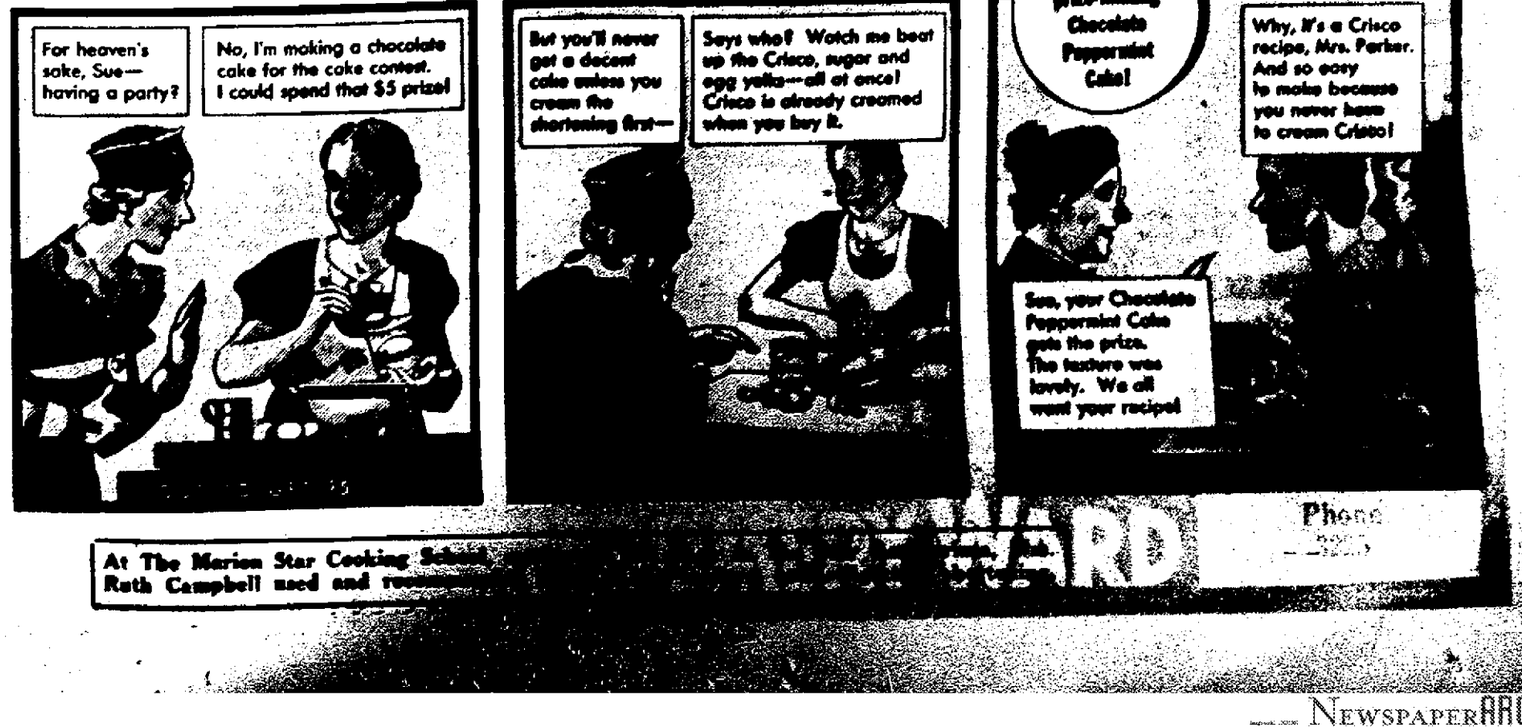
TOASTED SPICE CAKE

½ cup Crisco
2 cups brown sugar (sifted)
2 eggs (separated)
1 teaspoon soda
1½ cups sour milk
2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Blend wholesome, fluffy Crisco with sugar and egg yolks in one brisk beating. (Crisco needs no preliminary creaming!) Dissolve soda in sour milk. Add milk alternately with all sifted dry ingredients. Add vanilla. Mix until smooth. Pour into a Crisoed and floured shallow pan (9" x 12"). Spread with—

Brown Sugar Meringue: Beat 2 egg whites (left from cake) until they hold a point but are not dry. Slowly beat in 1 cup sifted light brown sugar. Spread meringue over raw cake batter. Sprinkle with ½ cup of broken pecanuts. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 45 to 50 minutes.

All Measurements Level—Recipes tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by the Procter & Gamble Co.



For heaven's sake, Sue—having a party?
No, I'm making a chocolate cake for the cake contest. I could spend that $5 prize!
But you'll never get a decent cake unless you cream the shortening first—
Says who? Watch me beat up the Crisco, sugar and egg yolks—all at once! Crisco is already creamed when you buy it.
Recipe above for prize-winning Chocolate Peppermint Cake!
Why, it's a Crisco recipe, Mrs. Parker. And so easy to make because you never have to cream Crisco!
Sue, your Chocolate Peppermint Cake gets the prize. The texture was lovely. We all want your recipe!

High Price of Living.

It has been a long time since anyone has done any official thinking or talking about the high price of living. Orders of the day are concerned with a price of living so low that producers are unable to make enough profit to employ workers at living wages.

The plan in effect is supposed to change this condition. One of the first things it does in operation is to increase the cost of living. That increase calls for wage increases, which causes higher production costs. Those costs, in turn, bring higher retail prices, completing one of those circles usually described as "vicious."

The irony of the situation is that complaints of the high cost of living, when they were being made before and after the World war, were just as sincere as complaints about the low cost of living that has created so much unemployment and financial distress. It was argued then that high costs restricted the number of commodities which the average family could buy, hence reducing the demand for goods and ultimately the production of goods.

There have been exceptions to the sometimes acceptable rule that general business conditions are bad when retail prices are abnormally high. During several years of Taft's administration business activity was well above normal, although vociferous complaints of the high cost of living were common. Through the period of Coolidge prosperity, retail prices were higher than the 1921-22 average.

It is evident, therefore, that if the choice were to be made between abnormally low and abnormally high prices, the latter would have to get the call. Low prices create universal distress; high prices create distress only among those whose incomes are completely out of adjustment. A high price of living is not the aim of the recovery program, although prices seem relatively high. However, the present price situation is abnormal. In many cases, goods at both wholesale and retail were being sold below cost a few months ago. Hence an increase of 50 per cent now while production costs have increased only 25 per cent is justified if the commodity was selling 25 per cent below cost. High prices still are a safe distance away.

One Thing that Doesn't Change.

A backstage issue between the national recovery administration and employers deals with the effect of NRA on strikes. Employers claim that the provisions of the act and their administration are fomenting strikes. NRA officials reply that an outburst of labor difficulties always has accompanied recovery from depressions.

The evidence is with NRA officials. The record of labor troubles in the United States indicates that they decrease when hard times create strong competition for jobs. When the country is recovering from a depression, labor tries to gain back the ground it has lost, by strikes if necessary. There is good reason to believe that current strikes, however deplorable they may be from the standpoint of the recovery program, merely demonstrates the soundness of the rule.

Back in 1881 the bureau of labor began to collect figures on the number of strikes. This was a year of prosperity. In 1884, a year of depression, strikes decreased, but increased again in the recovery of 1885. In the prosperous period of 1886 to 1892, there were numerous strikes. This period was followed by five years of depression, during which the numbers of strikes increased sharply.

Federal statistics are missing for a period of years, but the record of the last decade and a-half is familiar. The war was accompanied with many strikes, but the total was kept relatively low by the machinery of arbitration established in the Wilson administration and by the opportunity for high profits as long as the plants were in operation. In the post-war depression, the number of strikes decreased, only to increase again in the recovery of 1923.

The ensuing period of prosperity was an exception to the general trend. Various factors are assigned, such as high wages, welfare work, shorter working hours and establishment of company unions. However, in 1930, strikes decreased and the number was held low until May of this year. The record seems to prove that labor's interminable strikes for advantage is one thing that does [illegible] NRA, in all probability, has kept [illegible] strikes from being more [illegible]

Counting the Gain.

It is a little [illegible] that the census of unemployment [illegible] recovery administration [illegible] work involved. At best [illegible] upon by the statistician [illegible] termination of the hardest [illegible] forms of men who have gone [illegible] to be an impossible task.

Even if it were [illegible] out a single reemployment [illegible] had found jobs since the [illegible] pression last winter, there [illegible] broad question as to the advisability [illegible] ing a definite figure. To many it would seem that reemployment was [illegible] place rapidly enough. There is a [illegible] advantage in keeping progress [illegible] broad estimates when people are [illegible] in a hard experiment.

On the other hand the possibility [illegible] census will show more reemployment [illegible] has been given in estimates promises to [illegible] good strategy. Although the administration has won for itself a reputation for caution there always is the suspicion that politicians would rather err on the side of exaggeration. If an estimate which has stood between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 were to be raised to approximately 4,000,000 by statisticians, the people might be willing to take the latter's word against that of politicians.

Figures actually tell less of the story than feeling. There are communities in which reemployment has taken place on so grand a scale that no amount of evidence proving the recovery program a failure would be accepted. There are, likewise, communities which could not be convinced by any means that NRA was doing any good. It is the signs that can be seen and felt which carry conviction. The recovery movement will be judged on the basis of those signs in the last analysis. No amount of "conclusive" evidence from Washington will be able to alter that judgment when it is made.

Bureau of Propaganda.

There has been no truer indication of the distance Germany has come under the Hitler regime than seizure of the last rights of the press. From now on, Germany will read nothing in its newspapers that does not have the approval of Dr. Paul Goebbels, Hitler's minister of propaganda and enlightenment.

It is a restriction with plenty of teeth. Publication of articles judged treasonable is punishable by death. Heavy penalties of imprisonment are provided for other offenses. An interesting detail is the rule against non-Aryans in the profession of journalism. It is anticipated that even a newspaperman with a Jewish wife will be unable to find employment.

Dr. Goebbels, with the amazing confidence of the Nazis, pronounces the new setup "the most modern journalistic statute" in the world. With a fine disregard for the censure of the press in other nations, he predicts that it will be made a model for governmental use elsewhere.

Perhaps the most direct way to judge the significance of the statute is to imagine what it would mean in the United States at the present time. The situations are comparable; both countries are in the midst of earnest recovery movements under strong leadership.

In this country, it would mean that no comment which might be construed by a judge working for the administration as critical of any federal policy would be permitted. In effect, that would entail a complete alteration of editorial policy by every newspaper in the nation. The Roosevelt administration would be working in a vacuum.

Americans do not believe in this sort of thing, even as a drastic action. It is contrary to one of the cherished fundamentals of the form of government for which they have fought and bled. So well grounded are they in their belief that a free press contributes to sound government that they are unable to see how a bridled press can be of service even in a nation as uncertain in its course as is modern Germany. It is their judgment that any government unable to stand in the face of criticism by its people is too weak to stand.

The Grind.

It is necessary to go back to the earliest days of the Roosevelt administration to discover serious concern over the terrific strain imposed on the President by responsibilities greater than ever have been sought or accepted by a chief executive. Mr. Roosevelt speedily set fear of that nature at rest by displaying a remarkable ability to delegate authority, leaving himself free to deal with policies.

Unfortunately, early fear is aroused once more by reports from Washington that the President intends to take a more active part in the exercise of his authority. Not because his lieutenants are failing to function with all the efficiency that could be demanded in this necessary, but because the amount of work which has piled up is too great for the staff to handle.

The American people have learned to be apprehensive of the fate of overworked presidents. They have seen one after another robust man's health broken by performance of functions which even in normal times are far more trying than those delegated to the heads of large businesses. To the end of preserving the health of their presidents, they have insisted on a lightening of presidential duties.

Mr. Roosevelt, as capable and willing as he undoubtedly is, will serve the people best by abstaining carefully from giving them the impression that he has allowed circumstances to impose a dangerous burden of responsibility on his shoulders. He has enough to do if he attempts to do nothing more than chart the general course of the recovery movement.

Of all single-handed reporting feats, that of John Ralph on Dana's Sun excels. After a day of observance he sat down at 7 p. m. and at midnight had finished his story of the dedication of Grant's tomb. He took no notes, yet with pencil and paper his stirring account filled the entire first page of the Sun and "jumped" inside for three columns. For the long haul Irvin Cobb surpassed that record in reporting the entire Thaw trial by longhand, rushing it page by page to the office by nimble-footed copy boys.

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Wednesday, Oct. 10, 1923

The American Federation of Labor, in convention at Portland, Ore., went on record emphatically against launching a new labor party.

The New York Giants defeated the Yankees, 5-4, in the opening game of the world series before a crowd of 62,000, the largest number of paid customers in world series history up to that time. Watson and Ryan pitched for the Giants and Hoyt and Bush for the Yanks.

A delegation of 100 members of the Knights Templar commandery at Tiffin stopped here while enroute to the annual grand commandery conclave in Columbus to hold short services at the Marion cemetery vault as a tribute to the late President Harding.

Members of the Carpe Diem club were guests at a picnic dinner at the home of Mrs. E. G. Roberts on West Church street.

BRINKERHOFF'S IDEA.

It is certain known that Levi T. Schonbeck, a Cleveland architect, executed the [illegible] group of statuary, the most [illegible] on the state capitol grounds but the [illegible] was conceived by the late Roeliff Brinkerhoff of Mansfield, long the head of the state board of charities. At a dinner given by the state archaeological and historical society in February 1891, the general was placed on the program as a speaker without time for preparation. His subject was "Ohio at the Columbian exposition." As he waited his turn to speak, he revolved the subject in his mind, and when he was called upon to speak, after giving a few general suggestions in the way of building and exhibits he alluded to the fact that Ohio excelled in the production of men. Then he related the story of Cornelia, the Roman matron who presented her sons as her jewels, and thought it might be possible to represent the state as a noble matron in the midst of a group of her children upon whom she could look down with serene admiration.

Washington And Wall Street

BY GEORGE DURNO

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—Regardless of all the diplomatic reassurances you may see the Roosevelt administration is convinced the island of Cuba is a keg of dynamite that may blow at any minute.

What course we shall pursue when and if the fuse is touched off is keeping the state department awake at nights and churning President Roosevelt to his office.

Uncle Sam, because of the Platt amendment, is responsible not only for his own citizens there but is expected to protect the nationals of other lands as well.

Secretary of State Hull and his assistants keep talking down the idea of intervention. In this they are speaking from the book.

Mr. Roosevelt has passed word down the line he doesn't want our marines and sailors landing and taking over the situation except as an extreme resort. Too many factors are at stake. This government is well aware that certain European capitals would be only too glad to see us do so.

Then they could stir up the old Latin-American antagonism to "Uncle Sam the oppressor," step in personally, and improve their Central and South American trade at our expense.

Naval officers in command of our ships in Cuban waters have secret orders exhaustively covering their course of action in event of trouble.

At the first sign that shooting is becoming so general as to endanger the lives of Americans and other foreigners they are to put their small boats ashore, gather up all possible Americans, British and other nationalities and evacuate them to the safety of our warships.

There is to be no shooting on the part of our forces unless it is absolutely necessary to have a foreigner's life.

Soldiers

Privately Washington officials are anticipating the eventual necessity of pulling all possible aliens out of Havana.

President Grau San Martin has been ruling Cuba for more than a month with only the support of several thousand troops and a student body. Taxes are not being collected and no revenues are coming in to the Cuban treasury. The troops will be loyal to Grau San Martin (or anybody else) only as long as they get paid.

When funds run out to keep the professional fighters happy, then Washington looks for trouble with a capital T.

Decision

Competent observers have reported confidentially to the state department it is their opinion a general and bloody revolution will break immediately in the wake of any desertion of Grau San Martin by his troops.

Reports that were coming in the day before President Roosevelt addressed the American Legion in Chicago were so black the Executive didn't make up his mind finally to go until two hours before train time. That last minute announcement of the Chicago trip wasn't window dressing to dramatize Mr. Roosevelt's appearance before the veterans.

Telegrams were pouring into Hyde Park that night. The President had Secretary Hull on the long distance phone several times. At one stage of the evening he had about decided to hurry back to Washington.

Losses

Badgered and harassed from all sides for their inability to get money flowing into actual payrolls, officials of the public works administration are complaining privately they are being stymied in the South and West by state laws and financial conditions.

They could get the ball rolling all right, say the public workers, by awarding a lot of outright money grants and letting the federal treasury shoulder the whole burden.

But this wouldn't be fair to those who have come in already and signed up for projects 70 per cent of which are to be repaid.

A number of propositions have come in from the South and West where work could be started soon enough but Uncle Sam would lose all his money good-bye forever.

In many instances states and municipalities in those sections are already up to the limit of their bonded indebtedness with prospects generally bad for the immediate future at least.

To increase their indebtedness special elections would have to be called, a given percentage of the registered voters would have to turn out and a given percentage of that percentage would have to okay going more into hock.

So far Secretary-Administrator Ickes has been sticking to his guns and trying to invest the emergency money where there is a chance that some of it will come back.

It may be he will have to revise his policy. There are those who contend the money was appropriated by congress to meet a grave emergency. The emergency is some 11,000,000 unemployed.

The big idea, say those now pressing public works, is to get those people back to work—or as many as possible of them—and count the losses later.

Nazis

The rumpus in Berlin over the appointment of a new minister of defense has international significance for administration experts.

Von Papen and his allies want to keep supreme command of the Reichswehr from falling altogether into the hands of the Nazis. The Nazi heads are determined to consolidate their position by appointing either Goering or Roehm to the war ministry. The growing discontent in the Reichswehr ranks due to the failure of Hitler to give up to his promises, calls for repressive measures without delay.

Notes

The public works administration at least has a growing admiration for the navy department for producing. At the snap of a finger they get planes to ride around in, men to do special work, photographs, special information, etc.... The hoboes' code is now in at NRA. Over the impressive signature of "J. Leon B.-M. C. S. Lazarowitz, King of the Hoboes of North America," it says "every hobo in the entire United States pledges himself to boycott all products and persons not cooperating with the residential proclamation"...A post Presidential proclamation". . . A postscript requested full publicity, herewith extended.

BY JAMES M'MULLIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—The banking invalid is going to be lifted over the deposit insurance hurdle on cushions instead of having to jump it unaided.

Big banks and little banks alike have been making the government's ears ring with the lament that their system is in no state of health to leap that hurdle. A lot of smaller banks would be certain to trip and fall on their faces with a resulting solar plexus wallop to confidence and recovery. What the banks wanted was to get deposit insurance called off or modified or at least postponed.

What they will get is something else. Deposit insurance stands as arranged. But every bank—state and national—now opened will be placed in a position to qualify. How?

By simply padding the sore spots with extra capital provided by the government through the RFC.

That way depositors and guaranteeing banks have an extra margin of safety against losses from slow or bad assets.

All Sheep

It is an important part of the plan that there shall be no distinction between sheep and goats—strong banks and weak ones. If only the banks that needed it borrowed capital the public might single them out for disfavor with probable unpleasant results all around those which did not.

Therefore all banks must join the party and the New York banks have been selected to lead the grand march because everyone knows they are strong. No odium can attach to any bank which follows their example. That's why Jesse Jones has been so hell-bent on securing the cooperation of local institutions.

Capital

He's got it too. The logical clearing house banks had a beautiful wrangle among themselves. No two of them could agree on method for a while. But every last one of them will soon announce an increase of capital and the big parade will be launched.

The only thing is it won't be done on the government's plan. The banks just couldn't see the sense of paying 4 per cent for capital they didn't want and bringing the government's men on their boards. So a number of them have arranged a game of ring-around-the-rosy which will cost them practically nothing. Bank A will sell its capital notes to bank B instead of to the RFC. Bank B in turn will sell to bank C, bank C to bank D, and bank D to bank A. The amounts will be approximately equal among banks of the same size and the interest charges will be uniform. So the interest will just cancel out and the extra capital won't cost the participants more than a few bucks for accounting.

They asked Mr Jones if this was O.K. He said yes. It remains to be seen whether banks which borrow from the RFC are viewed in the same light as those which simply borrow from each other.

Capital

At that the New York banks sold the government a bill of goods to compensate for their cooperation.

They have definite assurance that the government will make no effort to horn in on their credit policy. That was part of the arrangement. They also have reason to hope that they will not be held up to scorn again for failure to loosen up on credit.

They finally put across the idea that what industry needs is capital credit and not short term commercial loans. And they inferred strongly that it was up to the government to provide it because of the "disabilities" inflicted on private financing by the securities act.

The banks also point with pride to the gain of $53,000,000 in non-security loans in this district last week as evidence that they really do want to lend money.

Shelved

The project of having the banks form a corporation to borrow from the RFC and relend to NRA members who can't get credit otherwise has been temporarily shelved. Their cooperation on that line is not needed as urgently as in the matter of the bank capital structures.

Money

Informed New Yorkers say it's a fair question to ask where all the money is coming from to put over this RFC bank program. Latest inside estimates indicate a further increase of the public debt to almost $30,000,000,000 within a year. The New York banks have an idea they will be invited to swallow huge blocks of government securities to finance the federal credit program and they aren't exactly cheering at the prospect.

Johnston

Percy Johnston of the Chemical bank—new chairman of the New York clearing house committee—is more sympathetic to the New Deal than most of his colleagues. He was one of the New York bankers who supported Roosevelt in the election last year and has served on the local NRA committee. He used to be a national bank examiner and his viewpoint is not limited to the strictly Wall Street angle.

Bruere

Insiders understand that Henry Bruere's new job in Washington will consist of advising the President how to spend money more rapidly as well as how to raise more to spend. Reports that the job will lead to an appointment as secretary of the treasury are not taken seriously here although it might happen.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—The President has proclaimed a week [illegible] prevention and you are [illegible] week. More than half [illegible] deaths, three-quarters of the property loss, could have been prevented.

To regulate reckless fire [illegible] ance might help. No insurance should be issued on non-fireproof buildings in which families occupy upper floors.

Religion in Russia

Mr. Allen, recently governor of Kansas, finds strange things traveling through Russia.

In the "Anti-God Institute" in Leningrad, established in the old Cathedral of St. Isaacs, [illegible] "two ghastly corpses," one [illegible] a peasant, taken from a [illegible] grave, "the decaying shreds of his clothing hanging to his bones." The idea is to show that he [illegible] rise, as he was, on the [illegible] judgment.

The other corpse was that [illegible] disinterred priest that had been reposed in a rich coffin as a [illegible] object. A gloved, mummified hand had protruded outside the coffin. Peasants might kiss that hand for a few kopeks."

There the idea is to [illegible] peasants that the priest [illegible] not risen, and that his hand [illegible] apparently while, was a decoy [illegible]

The museum also showed a picture of John D. Rockefeller [illegible] heading a Baptist parade in [illegible] cago," as "a malign example of [illegible] ligious oppression that capitalism is laying upon the American people."

Not all Russians have given up religion. Some still whisper to each other, "The years of God are long," and atheism, according to Mr. Allen, does not satisfy the Russian peasant. It really doesn't satisfy anybody. That is why religions are established, to answer such questions as "Who made us and put us here" and "Where do we go next?"

If You Live Until 2033

Dr. Crile of Cleveland, an able scientist, has encouraging news if you expect to live until the year 2033. Then, according to Dr. Crile, there will be no more tuberculosis or diabetes, and various other diseases that kill many may also be gone, and men will live longer. Cancer may persist after 2033 but there is good news about that disease, many doctors reporting numerous cures that have remained "cures" after five years.

Disease would diminish. So many lives would be prolonged if men knew enough to take care of their teeth, or would only get rid of teeth with abcesses at the root that poison the blood stream.

Buy, and Buy American

Women spend 75 per cent of the household money, according to Gen. Johnson, and he appeals especially to them to support the "Buy Now" campaign, and thus "help to keep the wage-earner on a payroll."

It is a good idea to add "Buy American" to your "Buy Now" program. Unless you buy goods made in America you are spending money to keep some foreigner on a payroll. That ordinarily would be desirable, but it is not so important with more than ten million Americans idle.

The Battling Kellys

George, alias "Machine Gun" Kelly, accused in the Urschel $200,000 kidnaping, has abandoned his role of "great, big, bad bandit" since he was surprised asleep. But his wife, Kathryn, "slim" and "svelte" to the reporters, is not cowed.

In court she slapped an officer in the face and said: "Yes and I would slap him again." He had pushed her ahead when she wanted to stop and kiss her father. Mr. White, the slapped federal officer who thought "Machine Gun" Kelly with shacked hands and feet had threatened him, pounded his prisoner over the head with the butt end of his revolver. That hurt "Machine Gun" Kelly's feelings.

It is believed that the recent condemnation of a considerable number of kidnapers to life imprisonment soon to be followed by the execution of one or two kidnapers in the state of Missouri, will discourage the kidnaping industry.

Mr. Rockefeller's investment [illegible] planning for liquor control after prohibition shall have ended, advised low taxes on wine and beer in the interest of real temperance.

Thomas Jefferson had the same idea.

In 1815 he wrote to [illegible] Yancey, of beer, that he hoped to see this beverage (beer) [illegible] common." This would be a great gain to the treasury and to the sobriety of our country."

Nudism loses its popularity just about this time of year, when the shop windows are full of temptations and a woman's most vital problems is how to get all the clothes she wants.

TWO CRASH VICTIMS REMAIN IN HOSPITAL

Eight Others Injured in Week-End Accidents Are Released.

Only two of the more than 10 persons injured in automobile accidents over the week-end were in the City hospital today. Street Commissioner Bert Bending of Mt. Gilead, was removed to the hospital yesterday for care of his left arm which was broken in an automobile accident Sunday in which Eva June Truax, 5, of Mt. Gilead, was killed.

Mrs. Rachel Casler of Delta, who was riding with her brother-in-law, Judge Robert G. Gosline of Toledo when the Gosline car met with an accident Sunday afternoon at Brush Ridge, probably will remain at the City hospital for several days, attaches said this morning. Mrs. Casler suffered a severe scalp wound and cuts about her face. Judge Gosline and his daughter, Martha, also a passenger in the car, were released yesterday afternoon.

JAP-RUSSIAN PEACE FACES NEW THREAT

Tokyo Spokesman Hints at Rupture; Railroad Brings on Differences.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Oct. 10—New differences between Russia and Japan rose today to clutter the path of continued peace in the far east.

Tentatively, said a Japanese foreign office spokesman, Japan will content herself with an investigation of the circulation at Moscow of documents which allegedly described a Japanese plot to seize the Chinese Eastern railway.

Then, he added, "stronger measures may be necessary", unless guarantees of "good faith" immediately are forthcoming from the U. S. S. R.

The new threat to peace, like others before it, was born of the protracted wrangling over negotiations for the sale of the Chinese railway.

Japan entered the conversations officially as a mediator in the projected sale by Russia to Nippon's puppet state, Manchukuo.

But charges have flared frequently in the Soviet capital that Tokyo was going further—was, in fact, as most lately asserted, joining in a plot to seize the road

BURTON TAYLOR DIES AT FAHEY ST. HOME

Succumbs After Illness of Several Weeks; Former Plymouth Resident.

Burton Taylor, 68, a resident of Plymouth, O., until last May, died today at 6:30 a. m. at the home of his wife's sister, Mrs. Thomas McGraw of 344 Fahey street. He had been seriously ill several weeks, following a stroke of paralysis.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor lived in Plymouth many years, coming to Marion to live at the McGraw home last May. Mr. Taylor was a barber by trade.

Surviving him with his widow are two sisters, Mrs. C. F. Root of Plymouth and Mrs. Frank Jones of Springfield.

He was a member of the Lutheran church at Plymouth and the Masonic lodge at Cardington. He was born Nov. 26, 1864 in Plymouth and was married to Cora Gallagher on May 24, 1916 in Detroit.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed. Friends may view the body at the M. H. Gunder & Son funeral home on West Center street after 6 tonight.

ditional need for reopening the codes in figures presented to them by Wagner. He said that production, after jumping 65 per cent from April to August, lost a third of that gain in September.

To prevent what it termed the threatened "passing of the public free schools" as a result of budget balancing, the federation adopted a 12-point educational program calling for "the utmost endeavor for the protection of education from kindergarten through university."

The program called for "truly professional standards" in the class room, smaller classes taught by trained teachers, a broader curriculum, an equitable wage for all instructors with security of tenure and "decent" working conditions, the establishment of teacher unions, maintenance of educational standards, old age pensions and opportunity for teachers to help formulate educational policy.

WREN WINS FIGHT TO REGAIN POST

notice of Officer Wren, that pertaining to his actions. At 2:00 p. m. he was standing at the southeast corner of Prospect and West Center streets and then went to the call box and called in at 2:15 p. m. He then came back to the same place, crossed the street and went into the Marion theater at 2:19 p. m. I then came to the office and reported to Chief Marks. I then went back to Main and Center streets and checked (for two hour time limit parking), the cars parked and found only three from Union street to Main street. I then went in the Marion theater and found Officer Wren seated in the rear seat on the opposite side of the entrance, two ladies to the left. He came out at 2:45 p. m., having been in the theater 28 minutes and was off his district. This is in violation of rule 39 of our rulebook with which he is familiar."

This report assumed a two-fold significance in the hearing. To its importance as the basis for Wren's suspension and subsequent dismissal was added the question of whether Wren ever had received a copy. On this question, the testimony was in conflict.

Say Copy in Letter

Safety Director Emery M. Murphy and Miss Mary Ellen Kerr, of 192 Bain avenue, his clerk, stated they were positive that a copy of Captain Shrock's report had been included in the bulky notice Wren received on Sept. 7 notifying him that he was dismissed. In the envelope with it, they said, were a letter from Director Murphy to Mr. Wren, an official order removing Wren on the ground of negligence, and a copy of a letter from Director Murphy to Police Chief William E. Marks.

Contradicting this testimony, both Wren and his wife, who said she was present when Wren received the letter, asserted that no copy of Captain Shrock's report, the real basis for the dismissal order, was contained in the letter. They said the envelope contained the dismissal order and the letters, but that these gave only the vague term, "gross neglect of duty" as the basis for the dismissal.

On the basis of Wren's testimony that he did not receive a copy of Captain Shrock's report or any other detailed information about the charge of neglect of duty, Mr. Mouser made repeated and vigorous protests against the introduction of any testimony, asserting that Ohio statutes and court rulings showed clearly that Wren was entitled to full and detailed information regarding the charge on which he was dismissed. The hearing was interrupted frequently for long periods by arguments of attorneys, occasionally with commission members, regarding this point of law and other technical legal questions regarding the admissibility of certain testimony.

Wren Testifies

Wren, called to the stand by his attorneys, admitted being in the theater on Aug. 31, but asserted he was there only eight or nine minutes. This testimony was upheld by his daughter, Mrs. Raymond Donough of 360 Park street, who testified she had seen her father standing on the southeast corner of Prospect and Center streets at 2:05 and 2:25 p. m. on that date. Captain Shrock previously had testified Wren entered the theater at 2:19, and that he left at 2:47. Wren said he went to the theater about 2:32, after waving to his daughter as she drove past, and came out of the theater at 2:40.

Wren testified he was accustomed to going into the Marion theater and other theaters frequently and seeing other members of the force in the theaters. He also said he had seen other patrolmen off their districts. This was substantiated by Walter McElroy of 16 Copeland avenue, assistant manager of the Marion theater, who said Wren "and plenty others" from the department visited the theater frequently, usually for 8 to 10 minutes at a time. McElroy said he thought Wren was in the theater twice on the afternoon of Aug. 31. Carl Exencamper of 351 Mary street, also an employe at the theater, said Wren and other members of the force came to the theater "once in awhile."

Permitted "Rests"

Attorneys for Wren, in cross examination of Police Chief William E. Marks, brought out that Chief Marks knew that the patrolmen occasionally took short rests in restaurants and in theaters, and that this practice was permitted.

Wren's contention that he had no notice of the details of the charge against him, and that he never had heard nor seen Captain Shrock's report of his being in the theater was countered by testimony of Chief Marks and Police Prosecutor John Wiedemann, who asserted Captain Shrock's report was read to Wren on the day he was suspended. Chief Marks said he later sent a copy of the report to Wren, but said when questioned by Mr. Mouser Jr. as to why he did this, "I don't know."

Chief Marks' testimony that Wren did not have his badge on display, as required by rules, when Wren was brought to his office for suspension was denied by Wren, who said he was wearing it on his shirt. Chief Marks said Wren took it from his shirt pocket.

Complaints Reported

Captain Shrock, while testifying, was asked by G. E. Waddell, member of the commission, why he happened to be making a check on Wren's activities on the day Wren visited the theater. Captain Shrock answered he had received numerous complaints that Wren had been off his district.

Captain Shrock also said he waited outside the theater seven or eight minutes after Wren had entered, and then went to police station to ask Chief Marks what should be done. The chief "was busy and didn't give an answer," Captain Shrock said. Acting on his own authority, Captain Shrock said he returned to the theater and took Wren to headquarters. Re-

A number of character witnesses were called and testified that their personal knowledge of Wren's reputation for character and efficiency in performing his duties was good. Under cross examination by Mr. Patton, they added that they had no knowledge of Wren's record as far as his record at the police headquarters was concerned.

Among them were Charles P. Ackerman of 360 Silver street who also said that talk in the shops and on the street was that Wren was being made the "goat." Z. W. McClung, C. F. McCombs, Gail Owens, Thomas Woodcock of Pearl street, Harold Denzer of East Center street, D. W. Reman of 160 Carhart street, E. W. Bentz of 165 Franconia avenue, E. C. Watte of 1133 East Center street and G. E. Morrow of 195 Barnhart street.

Courtroom Packed

The small municipal courtroom gallery was packed throughout the hearing, most of the spectators being forced to stand. At the conclusion of the hearing this morning, those in the gallery applauded the decision of the commission.

Attorneys for both sides expressed the opinion, before the commission adjourned, that the decision was fair. City Solicitor Patton said he felt the judgment of the commission was "very fair in view of the circumstances," and that the loss of pension rights and position would have been a "rather severe" penalty for Wren.

"I feel," the solicitor continued, "the judgment of this commission should be something for other members of the department to look to regarding their conduct. I have, however, no sympathy nor patience for rumor peddlers who circulate unfounded reports about members of the department. If anyone has a complaint, it should be made to officials and action will be taken.

"I believe we have a good police department—as good as in other cities of this size," he said.

Mr. Mouser Jr., said he appreciated the decision of the commission to give Wren another opportunity to serve as a patrolman. I believe that there will be no basis for future complaints of this nature against Mr. Wren," he said.

Members of the commission are W. N. Harder, chairman, G. E. Waddell and Clyde C. Caldwell. Ralph Carhart is secretary, but not a voting member.

AMERICAN - BRITISH DEBT PARLEY OPENS

English Seek To Persuade U. S. To Cut Down Obligations.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 British war debt spokesmen armed themselves with documents and statistics today for their first effort to persuade the United States that the obligations of the London government to this country should be cut down.

Sir Frederick Leith-Ross of the British treasury, with his aide, had an engagement with Undersecretary Dean Acheson at the treasury for the formal opening of negotiations.

The negotiators were confronted with the problem of reaching a compromise between dominant British sentiment against further war debt payments and the equally emphatic view of the American congress that payments should continue as scheduled in the 1923 funding agreement.

The contemplated installments of principal and interest totalling $11,000,000,000 over a period of 62 years. Since the agreement was made effective, Great Britain has paid more than a billion dollars. The unpaid principal now amounts to more than $4,000,000,000.

of impending strikes or violence were reported.

Major N. L. Thompson said an airplane survey flight into southern Indiana this morning was designed to determine advisability of sending troops into Gibson county. He received reports last night that groups of men were assembling on roads leading to the Francisco and Somerville mines in that county.

Meanwhile the guardsmen also heard that a mass meeting of miners in the Clinton, Ind., field would decide tonight whether they should strike to aid those in Sullivan county.

Activity of the troops was centered about the Hoosier mine and the Starburn shaft, near Shelburn in northern Sullivan county.

Under protection of the guardsmen non-union miners today for the first time in many weeks went to work in the Starburn mine without being molested by pickets.

A jubilant group entered the haft openly whereas in recent weeks they have been compelled to make their way through a threatening ring of union sympathizers.

NRA Officials See Settlement of Strikes

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—Negotiations scheduled between soft coal miners and operators were viewed by NRA officials today as foretelling a possible settlement of Pennsylvania strike difficulties.

Hugh S. Johnson, regarded the conference to be held between officials of the United Mine Workers of America and Thomas Moses, president of the H. C. Frick Coke Co., as the natural consequence of Saturday's White House meeting with the steel interests which own the "captive" mines.

When operators and miners failed to get together yesterday, Johnson telephoned steel leaders in New York where Moses was conferring. A few hours later Moses notified Philip Murray, vice president of the mine workers, that he was ready for a conference.

Labor Board Orders Report on Conditions

By The Associated Press

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Oct. 10—A report on labor conditions in the western Kentucky coal fields, which will be investigated by the national labor board, is being prepared by national guard officers who served as observers for the state government during the Harlan mine war two years ago.

The report probably will be submitted at the Washington hearing, which members of the west Kentucky Coal Operators association have declined to attend.

Percy D. Berry, president of the association, and M. K. Gordon, secretary, telegraphed Senator Wagner last night that members of the association are under contract to the independent miners union "and that we therefore cannot consider demands for any other labor organization."

France has about 50 firms engaged in the production of aeronautical equipment, of which 23 produce airplanes, providing employment to nearly 17,000 persons.

Miss Carhart succeeds Miss Virginia Smith as head of the club. Other officers named are Miss Elizabeth Carl, vice president, Miss Harriette Ann Nippert, secretary, Miss Mary Grubaugh, treasurer, and Miss Mildred McKeever, publicity chairman.

Meetings will be held each Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the Republican headquarters. Club members are now planning various events to stimulate interest in the campaign and election.

PROGRAM GIVEN AT MEETING OF SHRINE

Music and Readings Entertain Members of Lodge Group.

A program was presented by Marion Shrine No. 15 White Shrine of Jerusalem last night in the Masonic temple. Mrs. Goldie Swope entertained with an accordion solo and a group of readings was given by Miss Pauline Parish. Phyllis Tierney and Maxine Schlagenhauf entertained with tap dancing accompanied at the piano by Miss Marilyn Meseke. The Swope Sisters entertained with several vocal groups and Mary Ellen Middleton contributed a group of violin numbers.

The shrine patrol, captained by Mrs. Catherine Davies put on an exhibition drill. The program was in charge of Mrs. Sees and Mrs. O. J. Ricker. The patrol will meet Thursday night for practice. Mrs. P. F. Dye of southwest of LaRue will entertain the Sewing circle Wednesday.

A Hallowe'en party will follow the business meeting Oct. 23.

PHILLIANS GREETS MEMBERS OF TEAM

Mayor W. C. Phillains and members of the Eagles' band met members of the Columbus Red Birds baseball team and the Marion Travelers, who played an exhibition game this afternoon at Lincoln park, last night in front of Hotel Harding.

Mayor Phillians introduced Nick Cullop, manager of the Red Birds during their road trip, and "Chick" Skelly, manager of the Travelers. The band played a short musical program and then marched to the Marion Steam Shovel Co. gymnasium where the players were again introduced.

Other players greeted by the mayor were Clarence Heise, pitcher, and Bob Kline of the Columbus team and Joe Hauser, home run "king" of the American Association, who was to play on the Travelers' team.

SLIGHT DAMAGE CAUSED BY FIRE

Damage of about $5 was caused about 1 p. m. today by fire in the shoe store and shoe repair shop of Dini Touchieff at 474 West Center street. Fire companies No. 1 and 2 answered the call.

The fire apparently was caused by a match dropped through a hole in the floor, which set fire to dust from shoe leather between the floor and the ground. Firemen had to cut a hole in the floor to get at the blaze.

BENJAMIN F. ROBERTS DIES AT HOME HERE

Was Native of Wyandot County; Funeral To Be Thursday.

Benjamin F. Roberts, 72, a native of Wyandot county, died yesterday at 2:50 p. m. at his home at 544 Oak street following a 19 months illness of complications following a stroke of paralysis.

Mr. Roberts was at one time an employe of the American Malleable Casting Co. He was born June 20, 1860, to Isaac Roberts, a native of Wales and Catherine Hoagner Roberts, a native of Pickaway county. He was married May 14, 1885, in Wyandot county to Caroline Althouse.

Surviving with the widow are a son, Clarence G. Roberts of 544 Orchard street, three daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Copley of Fostoria, Mrs. Edna Riley of 189 North Seffner avenue and Mrs. Nina Lewis of 544 Oak street, nine grandchildren, four great-grandchildren, a brother, Charles Roberts of Spokane, Wash., and a sister, Mrs. Richard Burgess of Petroleum, Ind.

The funeral will be conducted Thursday at 1:30 p. m. at the home and at 2:30 p. m. at the Little Sandusk church. Rev. Franklin H. Markley, pastor of Epworth M. E. church of which Mr. Roberts was a member, will officiate. Burial will be made in the Little Sandusky cemetery. The body may be viewed at the home after 6 tonight.

FIRE SUSPECT

While searchers were still combing the blackened wastes of Griffith park, Los Angeles, for the remains of victims of the deadly brush fire that cost over 50 lives, Robert D. Bart was taken into custody on suspicion of having started the holocaust. He is shown after arrest, when, police said, he was in possession of incendiary materials. (International News Photo)

MARION RESIDENTS INVITED TO MEETING

Municipal Ownership of Utilities Will Be Discussed Tonight.

An open invitation to all Marion residents interested in the possibilities of municipal ownership of utilities to attend a meeting in the Central Junior High school tonight has been issued by the citizens' utility committee.

Carl D. Thompson of Chicago, secretary of the Public Ownership League of America, will be the principal speaker at the meeting, arranged by the committee in its campaign for municipal ownership of utilities here.

J. W. Jacoby, secretary will outline the activities of the committee and its plans. Music will be furnished by the Civic orchestra and Harold Compton. The musical portion of the program will start at 7:30, with the speaking scheduled for 8.

COVENANT THEME OF REVIVAL SERMON

The Abrahamic covenant was the theme of a revival sermon delivered last night at the First Church of the Nazarene by Rev. Milton Williams, evangelist. The sermon subject was "Spotted Cattle." Three persons went forward for prayer. Rev. S. F. Porter of Emmanuel Baptist church sang. Rev. Williams will preach each night this week at 7:30.

FAMED SURGEONS AT MEETING HELD IN CHICAGO

A reduction in the rental price of the auditoriums in the Edison and Central Junior High schools was authorized last night by the city board of education in a monthly meeting in the office of Supt George A Bowman.

The reduction brings the rental of the Edison auditorium to $25 a night where admission is charged and the Central auditorium to $20. The former prices were $35 at Edison and $25 at Central.

The new prices, effective at once, will be available, the board ruled, to organizations which are raising money only for their own support and not for pure profit.

Charge Only for Service

Several requests for the auditorium were read at the meeting, together with complaints that with present admission charges reduced it was difficult to meet the auditorium charges. These charges, board members explained, are made to defray heat, light, power and janitor service, and not for the use of the auditoriums.

Two new teacher appointments also were made by the board, promoting Delbert Smith, a substitute teacher at the Silver street school to a full time position, and appointing Miss Dorothy Bush of 343 Summit street as a part time teacher at the North Main Street school.

Smith, who lives on South High street, will teach in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades at the Silver street building. Miss Bush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edson L. Bush and a graduate of Harding High school in the class of 1929, will assist in the seventh and eighth grades at the North Main Street building.

Permission was granted by the board to the Second Ward Bohn-for-Mayor Booster club to hold a public meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Silver Street building. A charge of $2 for janitor service, light and heat was authorized.

Makes Motion

Harry Albrecht, board member, introduced a motion to reduce the auditorium rentals after a lengthy discussion by the board. Some hesitancy was evident, since the members felt that, although it was desirable to encourage civic enterprises, they could not reduce the rentals greatly and still get revenue sufficient to defray the wear and tear and other building expenses. The motion was seconded by Hector Young, board member and clerk-treasurer.

No change was made in the rental for organizations not charging admissions, which remain at $15 at Edison and $5 at the Central building.

COLDS

Go Thru 3 Stages

—and They're Far Easier Relieved in the First than in the Second or Third!

A cold ordinarily goes through 3 stages: the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. The first stage is the time to "nail" a cold.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is the treatment for colds. It is expressly a cold remedy and not a preparation good for half a dozen other things as well. It is direct and internal which is what a cold, an internal infection, requires. It is also complete—it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is inviting trouble. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine at any druggist, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and refuse a substitute —Adv.

TWO STOLEN AUTOS FOUND ABANDONED

Two automobiles owned by Prospect and Toledo men and stolen here Sunday night were found abandoned yesterday afternoon and this morning on the outskirts of the city by police. Both cars were hauled to the Haberman Chevrolet Co. garage.

One car, a Ford coupe owned by M S Jones of Prospect, was found this morning in a cornfield along the Garden City pike. The car apparently had been driven into the field when the driver wanted to abandon it. The ignition switch had been left on, causing down the battery but otherwise the car did not appear damaged.

The other car, a 1928 model Lincoln sedan, was found out of gasoline in a ditch on the water works road near the Marion airport yesterday afternoon. It had been stolen from the rear of Hotel Harding. Damage to the car appeared slight. It is owned by H. P. Streicker, a Toledo road contractor. Both cars were located by residents near where they had been abandoned.

CRAWFORD COUNTY

BUCYRUS, Oct. 10—Two reversed judgments have been received from the court of appeals at Lima. The eighth court found in the case of the Indian Refining Co. against Harold McCombs, an action filed here by McCombs that the judgment awarded by a jury is excessive to the amount of $100. Error in overruling a motion for a new trial in the case was also found by the court. Stipulation is made, however, that if McCombs is willing to agree to a remittur of $100 the verdict will be affirmed. The suit grows out of an alleged breach of contract. McCombs was given judgment here for $250.

Judgment of the lower court was found to be contrary to law in the case of Lon Sturgis against Maurice Sturgis. The higher court found that Sturgis had not disobeyed a court order to pay $25 a week support money, and also found that the petition should be dismissed and Sturgis relieved of being under the custody of the court.

Harry C. Baldwin of Galion and Mary L. Kelly of Galion have obtained a marriage license.

but don't ignore medical opinion

if you want to

—keep bowels regular and comfortable

—make constipated spells rare as colds

—avoid danger of bowel strain

A doctor will tell you that the careless choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form.

Can Constipation be Corrected?

"Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say thousands who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose that you find suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without assistance.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is no "convenience" in any cathartic that's taken so frequently, you must carry it wherever you go!

What is the "Right" Laxative?

In buying any laxative, read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptional preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. By using it, you avoid danger of strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable. You can make those constipated spells as rare as colds.

How many dimes and quarters are spent on "popular" laxatives! How quickly they count up, as you use more and more of these habit-forming helps! A bottle of Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin would save you money—and bring you real relief.

Why Doctors give a liquid laxative

The habitual use of irritating salts, or powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills and tablets is risky.

The properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without discomfort or injury. You need not take a "double dose" a day or two later.

The public can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore.

SLEEPING SICKNESS

AN epidemic breaks out, a score of people die. Everyone is terribly concerned. And rightly so, for sleeping sickness is a fearful disease.

Yet tuberculosis is always with us, taking its toll of human life every single day—55 per 100,000 population in Ohio die from it annually. But it concerns us so little that we permit people to die from lack of proper care and treatment. We fail to segregate tuberculosis sufferers and allow them to spread the germs of this highly infectious disease among their families, friends and fellow workers.

There is nothing spectacular about tuberculosis to bring it into newspaper headlines. All the more reason why its spread must be prevented.

NOTHING should be permitted to stop the fight against tuberculosis. Every locality should make adequate provision for the care of needy tuberculous patients for the safety and protection of all. Write for free copy of "Blocking Out the White Plague."

Published in the interest of tuberculosis treatment by the Rocky Glen Sanatorium, McConnelsville, Ohio, the oldest private tuberculosis sanatorium in Ohio.

Harding Team Revamped as Cheadle Seeks More Punch

TERRY GETS 5-YEAR CONTRACT AS PILOT OF NEW YORK GIANTS

Club Rewards First Baseman for Fine Showing in First Year at Helm.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—For a young man going on 36 who has the reputation of fighting for what he wants—and getting it "Memphis" Bill Terry has done pretty well for himself. On top of leading the New York Giants to a pennant and world championship with one of the greatest marches in baseball history, Terry marched out of club headquarters today with a new five-year contract as player-manager.

In the same offices where barely six months ago Memphis Bill lifted his big cigar and suggested the Giants might finish as high as third place, with some luck, he signed a document that makes him commander-in-chief on the field from 1934 to 1938 inclusive and assures him an annual salary reliably reported at $40,000. Thus he becomes not only the "man of the year" in baseball but the highest salaried player or manager in the National league.

The "Huddle System"

Back of Terry's remarkable success of 1933 is the story of something new in the ancient game of baseball—the "huddle system."

"There were no secrets on my ball club this year," says Terry. "I told the players early in the season that when they saw me go over for a talk with the pitcher, I wanted them all in on it. We found it worked so well that we got more and more into the habit of talking things over and working them out, during the game, especially when a critical situation developed. In that way, everybody had an interest in fulfilling his job to the utmost.

"You can call it the 'huddle system.' That's all right with me. The main thing is that it developed confidence and a feeling of cooperation among all hands when we got into the tight spot. We simply played the percentage and used common sense.

Worked Perfectly

"The crowning example of how this system worked, for me, was when our infield pulled that double play at the finish of the fourth game of the World series in that tough eleventh inning. Bolton, a pinch-hitter was coming up, with one out, the bases filled, with Hubbell pitching. So we went into a huddle. We talked about a double play but didn't know how fast Bolton was. Then word came from Charley Dressen, on the bench, that he knew Bolton was a slow runner. That settled it. Ryan and Critz went back, Hubbell made Bolton hit into the ground and the double play was a cinch.

Terry does not contemplate any major changes in the Giants for 1934, when he starts his new long term in office, but he said he will not hesitate to rebuild at any time and in any position, when it seems necessary.

Goerlich Shunted from Tackle To Quarterback

Only Two Linemen Left in Old Positions; Presidents To Entertain Bucyrus Saturday.

Under ordinary circumstances, football teams are considered to be past the experimental stage and the first string lineup pretty definitely established by the time the first three games have been run off. There are, however, exceptions to all rules, and the Harding football team seems to be one of those exceptions.

Remembering last Saturday's N. C. O. league opener in which the Presidents failed to click in anything like an impressive manner, absorbing a 33-6 beating at the hands of the Whippets, Coach Jack Cheadle hauled out the axe in the initial practice of the week yesterday afternoon and went into action. Figuratively speaking, heads fell right and left as Cheadle ripped the lineup apart and commenced reconstructing it all over again. The aggressive Harding scrubs bowled the principal attack of the forward wall but also took a few raps at the backfield. The latter unit will probably be that a far different lineup will take the field next Saturday when the Presidents act as hosts to the Bucyrus Redmen at Fairground field.

Injuries Handicap Team

With several members of the squad still bothered by painful injuries which are not responding to treatment as quickly as had been hoped, Cheadle dispensed with any rough scrimmage, confining the workout for the most part to acquainting the boys with their new positions. While a squad of about 15 ran through this sort of drill the rest of the boys were taken through a rigorous session of blocking and tackling on the dummies. The blocking and tackling was nothing to write home about in the Shelby game and Cheadle made it plain that it would be considerably improved before the team took the field for another contest.

The shaking up process left only two places intact in the line. Zuck and Miley retained their guard posts. Weller took over the center job, partly because of a head injury to Mason, the regular pivot man. Carhart, a husky sophomore, went to one tackle and Haberman went to the other, the two replacing Walker and Goerlich.

Goerlick at Quarter

Goerlich, a 160 pounder, was moved back to the quarterback post in place of Caprino, this move being made solely because of the weight advantage. Goerlich outweighing Caprino by 40 pounds. Caprino has turned in an excellent game at quarterback considering his weight but has been handicapped against the heavy opposing teams. Walker moved out to the left end post in place of Harbolt and Chappell took over the right flank in place of Tierney. Tierney's removal was also caused partly because of injuries.

Frasier retained his left wing back job and Castner was at the right wing post. Whitcum was again at full.

After making the wholesale shifts, Cheadle made it clear that the changes were not to be regarded as permanent. More are coming, he promised and then hurried the team into a review of their offensive plays. Cheadle indicated that several more possible changes are being considered. Some of them are expected to result in the shifting of players about according to whether the team is on offense or defense.

Looks Promising

While there was no very accurate way of telling, inasmuch as the team went through no actual scrimmage, the new lineup gave every indication of producing at least part of the hoped-for results. Goerlich looked good at his quarterback post and his 160 pounds should be a bundle of bad news for future opponents if he can master the intricacies of his new position in a capable manner.

The addition to the line of Carhart, who tips the Toledos at around 170 and Haberman, who balances the beam at more than 200, adds a lot of weight to the forward wall and does not cut down its speed. Walker with his aggressive tactics, gives promise of solving at least one of the end problems.

Cheadle's biggest worry right now is about Carl Danner. Danner has been pursued by an unshakable jinx all season and has been available but a short time. There is little chance that he will be able to do much this week but there are hopes he will be able to get back into action next week.

MARSHALL COLLEGE DARK HORSE ELEVEN OF BUCKEYE CIRCUIT

Newcomer To Conference To Get First Big Test At Miami Saturday.

Marshall college's eleven enters the Buckeye conference football championship picture as a possible dark horse after its decisive 19 to 0 victory over Wittenberg last week-end.

Coach Tom Dandelet's team will get its big test this week when the Herd goes to Oxford for a game with Miami, conference champions.

John Zontini, halfback, is the spark plug on this West Virginia team that has made an impressive showing in both of its first games. The Herd stampeded on Transylvania, 38 to 0, two weeks ago, and then made its conference debut with the surprising win over Wittenberg.

Marshall followers as far back as last season were predicting great things from Zontini, and to date he has lived up to them. He scored two touchdowns and made two extra points against Transylvania, and against Wittenberg he made two more touchdowns. He'll bear watching.

The Marshall-Miami game Saturday will be the only official Buckeye conference contest this week-end, since the other four league teams are slated for non-conference tussles.

Ohio Wesleyan is to meet Syracuse for the sixth time, and the Bishops' showing against the Orange will give their followers some indication of what Gauthier's team will do when it embarks upon its conference schedule. The Bishops won from Syracuse last year, 19 to 12. Last week Ohio Wesleyan trimmed Dayton, 22 to 10, in a thrilling night game.

Ohio university, back from its great performance against Purdue at Lafayette, will meet Franklin at Athens. Purdue had to uncork everything it had to defeat Ohio, 13 to 6, last Saturday, and Ohio's remarkable showing stamps the Bobcats as a real threat to Miami and the rest of the Buckeye conference elevens.

Cincinnati will try to keep its goal line uncrossed next Saturday night when the University of Kentucky team is met at Cincinnati, while on Saturday afternoon Wittenberg will go to Granville to meet Denison's luckless eleven which has lost both its first two games.

The following week will see all conference teams in action among themselves, with Miami at Ohio, Marshall at Cincinnati, and Ohio Wesleyan at Wittenberg.

KALLIO HOLDS TITLE AFTER STIFF SCRAP AGAINST CHALLENGER

Scotty M'Naught Loses in Long Battle at Steam Shovel Gym.

Gus Kallio of Finland retained his welterweight wrestling crown here last night after a desperate battle with Scotty McNaught of Canada before a packed house at the Steam Shovel gym.

It was one of the most interesting mat battles staged here in recent months and found McNaught surprising every fan at his ability to take it and his constant drive to put on a vital hold that would give him the title.

Kallio was not exactly pleased with the way things were going after McNaught took the first fall. The champion was forced to take the defensive quite often and several times he crawled under the ropes to break a punishing hold.

McNaught Surprises

When the two men squared away for the first fall Kallio rugged and grown and McNaught slight and very fair the fans figured it was only a matter of how long the champion cared to let the match go. The surprise came after the first fall. McNaught drove after Kallio every second and even the champ's most punishing holds seemed to have no effect.

When it was sifted down to the end the wrestlers depended on two holds for victory. Only the Indian death lock could bring results for McNaught and Kallio was compelled to rely upon the not so sensational self strangle.

McNaught won the first fall in 15 minutes with the Indian death lock. He and Kallio were on the mat and McNaught straightened up out of what seemed a flying mass of legs. The result was his pet hold and the champion gave up.

Fighting to avoid the hold that lost him the first fall, Kallio came back to even matters by scoring a fall with the self strangle in 26 minutes. He was forced to put McNaught's shoulders to the mat as the Canadian wouldn't give up.

Champ Too Clever

Several times McNaught was on the verge of victory in the last fall when he had the death lock all set up. But the wise champion successfully evaded the hold each time and finally won with another self strangle after 45 minutes.

Ivan Kossack, the Russian, was no match for the Sioux Indian, Ben Bolt, in the semi-final. The Indian, inclined to be plenty rough, gave a good account of himself and won in straight falls. He took the first with a whip slam in 24 minutes and the second in 10 minutes with an airplane slam.

In the preliminary, Ham Hamilton of Marion and Emery Zahn went 20 minutes to a draw.

Cincinnatian Winner.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 10—Shooting 144 for 36 holes, Frank Gelhot of the Richwood club, Cincinnati, won the central Ohio P. G. A. championship. P. O. Hart of Columbus, was second with 146.

JUDD SCHEDULED TO HURL FOR RED BIRDS

Ralph Judd, a young right hander, and Leo Mangum another right hand tosser from the Boston Braves' staff, were scheduled to take the mound at 3:30 this afternoon when the Columbus Red Birds and Marion Travelers clashed at Lincoln park in an exhibition. Judd was slated to pitch three innings. Three Red Bird pitchers are expected to work three innings each.

The Red Birds are stopping off here on a barnstorming tour. The minor league champs beat Dan Donelson's Carey Semi-Pros yesterday 5-0 with Nick Cullop and Mickey Heath doing the pitching.

CHARM WORKS

Rabbit's Foot Gets Credit for Kansas "Moral Victory."

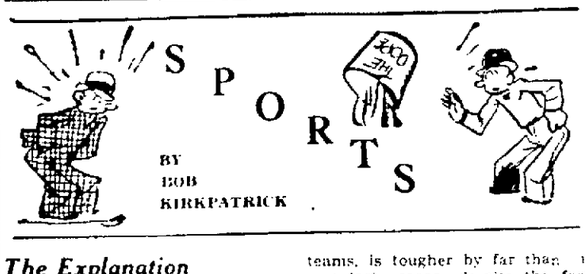
By The Associated Press

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 10—A "size 12" rabbit's foot was the University of Kansas' good omen in the scoreless tie game between the Jayhawks and Notre Dame at South Bend last Saturday which was celebrated as a victory on the Kansas campus.

The good luck token was taken along by Frank (Strings) Dixon, fraternity house man and volunteer waterboy. The elongated Negro's loyalty to the football squad is rewarded with trips to out-of-town football games and he took the rabbit's foot along after recalling how Pennsylvania beat Kansas when he went with the gridders to Philadelphia in 1930, without his good luck piece.

STANFORD AND NORTHWESTERN TO CLASH SATURDAY

One of the season's earliest major intersectional football games will be the meeting at Soldier field, Chicago, Oct. 14 of Stanford university's Cardinals, undefeated in three Pacific coast tilts, and Northwestern. Corbus, one of the nation's outstanding guards of 1932, and Backs Sim and Hamilton, are stars of Tiny Thornhill's first Stanford effort as head coach. Sullivan and Olson are the Wildcats' veteran backfield stars. (Associated Press photos).



The Explanation

SINCE Harding dropped a 33-6 decision to Shelby last Saturday, there have been numerous inquiries as to just why the Presidents, who had marked up two earlier non-league victories, were handed such a drubbing by the Whippets. The simplest answer is that Shelby has the better football team. It might be qualified to the extent of saying the score probably wouldn't have been quite so lop sided had all of the Harding players been available. At least five of the Presidents were not in shape to play. That took a lot of strength away from the Cheadle-coached eleven, more than it could give away and still have a chance against the veteran Shelby team.

Not Through Yet

RECALLING perhaps, that in several previous years, Harding has marked up one or two early victories and then folded up for the rest of the season, I talked with at least one person who predicted that this same situation exists this season, that Harding is through doing anything about winning football games in 1933. I'll give him odds he's wrong.

Harding, as has been stated on numerous previous occasions here, doesn't have a championship football team by any means. The material is for the most part green and inexperienced. Added to this, the schedule, barring one or two teams, is tougher by far than it was last season, despite the fact the same list of teams are being met.

Better Beat Us Now

BUILDING a winning football machine overnight isn't being done. It takes time. Harding's new mentor, Jack Cheadle, is building for the future. This much is obvious when one glances at the list of freshmen and sophomores in the lineup. Within a year or so, I believe, Marion will cease to be the plaything of the N. C. O. league and commence to "go places." That, I might add, is the sentiment which prevails all over the N. C. O. circuit. As one correspondent put it recently, "I figure we'd better beat you this year while we can, because I have a hunch we won't do it very much oftener."

Starting Over Again

THE "cyclone" which raged through the Harding squad yesterday in practice is typical of the way Cheadle and his assistants are going about their work. The Harding coaches made no secret of the fact they aren't impressed with the Harding lineup at present. Consequently, despite the fact mid-season is approaching, Cheadle promptly tore the whole thing up and started rebuilding. Several boys were relegated to the second string. Some from the second were brought up to the varsity.

There is no assurance the changes will be permanent. It is almost certain that other changes will be made. Unless the team suddenly turns into a high geared machine, and that is unlikely, some more freshmen and sophomores will be brought in and given a chance. Quoting from Cheadle himself as he pointed out the reasons to his squad for making the shifts, "Harding may lose a lot of football games this season but take it from me, it's not going to lose them without putting up a battle. There are boys here who can play football as well as those in any other school in the league. If we don't find them this week, we'll keep looking until we do. That's all, let't get to work."

VINES QUITS RANKS OF SIMON PURES TO COMPETE WITH PROS

Californian, After Bad Season, To Join Big Bill Tilden's Troupe.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—Ellsworth Vines finally has taken the plunge into professional tennis.

Hard on the heels of the disastrous season of his comparatively brief career, the 22-year-old Pasadena youngster has signed a one-year contract with Big Bill Tilden on terms Tilden declines to disclose but which possibly will net Vines about $25,000 for 1934.

ELLSWORTH VINES

The tall Californian, amateur champion of the United States in 1931 and 1932 and Wimbledon title-holder in 1932, will make his professional debut in a match with Tilden in Madison Square Garden, Jan. 10.

Then will follow a short tour of the Pacific coast and back at which Tilden and Vines will engage in a series of nine contests along Davis cup lines, against Henri Cochet and Martin Plaa of France. The first of these will be played next February.

Although Vines was beaten in every one of his major tests during the campaign just closed, Tilden is confident the youngster quickly will regain the form that made him a sensation in 1931 and 1932.

With Cochet and Vines both enlisted under his banner, Tilden now intends to organize a regular circuit of pro tournaments next year.

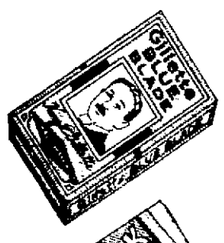
GILLETTE OFFERS A COMPLETE SHAVING SERVICE
AT AMAZINGLY LOW COST

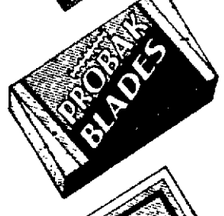
At revolutionary low prices Gillette offers a service not even approached by any other manufacturer.

Recognizing that every man's shaving problem is different, Gillette provides a complete line of blades to meet varying requirements. Drastically reduced in price—these blades put matchless shaving comfort and satisfaction within the reach of all men.

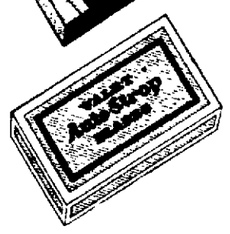
Read the brief statements below. Buy the blade suited to your special requirements and get supreme shaving ease at sensational low cost.



The "Blue Blade"—positively the sharpest we have ever produced—is especially recommended for men with tender skin. Its smooth, super-keen edges glide across sensitive faces without pull or irritation.



The Probak blade—while extremely sharp—has an entirely different type of edge and is particularly adapted for shavers with tough or difficult beards. Millions of men have found this blade best suited for their special requirements.



The Valet blade—for use in the Valet AutoStrop Razor—is designed for men who like to strop their blades before each shave. While their high quality has been acknowledged for years—these blades are now guaranteed sharper than ever before.

Gillette, Probak and Valet Blades
NOW 5 for 25¢
10 for 49¢
At the old prices Gillette, Probak and Valet blades were a sound value. Today's drastically reduced prices make them sensational bargains. The same high quality is positively guaranteed. If not satisfied return the unused blades to your dealer and he will refund your money.

Wool Market.

By The Associated Press
BOSTON, Oct. 10—Most lines of domestic wool are rather quiet. Small quantities sell occasionally at firm prices but no large transactions are being closed. A fair quantity of 64s and finer Ohio and similar fleeces has been sold this week. Strictly combing staple fine Ohio Delaines have brought up to 34 cents in the grease for choice lots, the range being 32@34 cents. French combing 64s and finer Ohio fleeces have been sold at 28@29 cents in the grease.

WHEAT SLUMPS TO LOW LEVEL

Prices Slide Due To Absence of Any Stimulating Factor.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO Oct. 10 Lowest prices since June distinguished wheat dealings today. Liquidation broadening enough to carry the market down a maximum of about 3 cents under yesterday's finish.

Most of the time, trade sentiment was inclined to be bearish owing to absence of any new outside stimulating factor. Recovery of market position, however, by some previous speculative sellers led to late rallies.

A leading authority on wheat called attention to indications that the United States wheat visible supply had apparently reached a peak for the season on Sept. 30 with a total of 147,996,000 bushels and a decrease of 1,727,000 this week. He said it was rarely the case that the supply showed a further increase after having begun to turn downward. It was added that the average date of the wheat supply had been Nov. 5, and that the 1933 date was the smallest since 1928. Corn and oats swayed with wheat.

Provisions were easy, influenced by hog market downturns.

MARION INMATE OF PEN GETS PAROLE

Marion L. Trimmer of Marion will be released Oct. 15 from the Ohio penitentiary on parole, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus. Trimmer has been serving a five-year term imposed in common pleas court here Oct. 6, 1930, on a charge of burglary. At the same time he was sentenced, sentencing was suspended on an automobile theft charge to which he pleaded guilty.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME OF WILLIAM LEMKE

Defective Wiring Blamed for Fire on Farm Near Kirkpatrick.

Special to The Star
KIRKPATRICK Oct. 10—The William Lemke residence one-half mile south of here was destroyed by fire about 2 p. m. Monday. Most of the contents were burned. The house was a seven-room structure built about four years ago. The origin of the fire is unknown but is thought to have been from defective wiring. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

GRAVE CREEK PLANS ARE GIVEN APPROVAL

Property Owners Consent To Project in Marion and Claridon Township.

Consent of property owners along Grave creek, in Marion and Claridon townships, to an improvement of the ditch, was obtained yesterday afternoon at a hearing before the county commissioners.

This was the second continued hearing on the project in the last two weeks. Previously, the property owners had been unable to agree on accepting the assessments.

The commissioners changed the size of tile to be used from 18-inch, as recommended by County Surveyor Carl Tozzer, to 15 inch. This change, the commissioners said, will mean a saving of about one-third in the cost of the tile.

The cost of the project will be refigured, on the basis of smaller tile being used. The commissioners set Oct. 28 as the date for receiving bids, with work to start within about 10 days from that date.

EPWORTH BOARD PLANS RALLY DAY

Oct. 22 Set for Event; Talks Are Given.

Plans were made for rally day Sunday, Oct. 22, at a meeting of the Epworth M. E. church Sunday school board last night at the church. The business meeting was preceded by a dinner served by the women of Ladies' Aid circle No. 2.

Three talks were given by members of the board. J. B. Ellis spoke on "Fellowship With the Greatest Teacher," after which Mrs. Grace Parlette Sifritt spoke on "Why Do You Think Missionary Training in Primary Departments Necessary." Rev. Franklin G. Markley, pastor, closed the program with a talk on "Spiritual Treasurer: Are They Available to the Worker in the Church School?" Misses Virginia and Annabelle Virden sang, accompanied at the piano by Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence.

CIRCLE ENTERTAINED

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Frayer of east of Claridon entertained the Vera Stull circle of Salem Rural Evangelical church last night at their home. The lesson study was presented by Mrs. Edith Howser and Miss Jeneila Fields entertained with a reading. Miss Hazel Trout contributed a vocal number. Elsie Baldauf was enrolled as a new member. Devotionals were conducted by Charles Howser.

30 ATTEND G. O. P. WARD MEETING

Mrs. H. K. Henderson of 531 Courtland avenue was hostess last night to Fifth ward Republicans at her home. About 30 attended, including committeemen, party candidates and precinct election board workers.

Refreshments followed the discussion and introduction of candidates. A meeting of the Republicans in the First ward will be held tonight at 7:30 in the Republican headquarters.

FOREIGN PUG WINS FIRST START IN U.S.

South African Whips Clevelander in 10-Round New York Bout.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK Oct. 10 Non Mc Corkindale [illegible] game heavyweight from South Africa, has cleared the first obstacle in his American trip.

While a host of fans looked on, McCorkindale lived his way to a 10-round decision over Patsy Perroni, young Cleveland battler, in Madison Square garden last night. The South African displayed an educated fist and a strong disinclination to assume a horizontal attitude when he was tagged full on the chin.

Perroni fought a clever bout of a fight most of the way. In the ninth and tenth rounds, however, he landed into McCorkindale with right uppercuts, but in the main McCorkindale fought his way about.

The Associated Press scorecard credited Perroni with seven rounds, McCorkindale three with two even.

McCorkindale weighed 191½ pounds; Perroni 187.

SCOUTS GUESTS AT CLUB DINNER

Boy Scouts troop 1 which the Y's Men's service club sponsors, was entertained at a dinner meeting of the club last night at Hotel Harding. The scouts took part in the program by reporting the scout oath and laws, and later heard Allen, assistant district commissioner of the Harding area, talked on scouting.

Plans were discussed for the Christmas dance which the club will give Friday night at the Marion Country club. Marion Hinklin is chairman of arrangements. Ray Christman's orchestra will furnish the dance music.

CLASS HAS PARTY

Winners in a class contest sponsored by the I. E. U. class of Trinity Baptist Sunday school were entertained by the losers at a party Friday night in the church. Contest honors were won by Dorothy Behrens and Glennamae Baughman. Officers named include Marie Weston, president, Mildred Thomas, vice president, Betty Morris, secretary, Margaret Vance, treasurer, and Dolores Whaley, reporter.

City To Ask for Bids On Old C.,D.&M. Rails

Service Director E. O. Uncapher Authorized by Council To Dispose of Material.

Service Director E. O. Uncapher was authorized by council last night to advertise for bids for the purchase of rails to be removed from the streets following abandonment of the C. D. & M. Electric Co. interurban.

This authority was granted at the request of Mr. Uncapher, who said a short section of tracks on the north end of Main street already have been removed and that plans are being completed rapidly for disposing of tracks in other streets in the city.

To Decide on Plan

He said announcement will be made within a few days of plans for removing and disposing of the rails. It appeared probable, following a discussion by Mr. Uncapher and councilmen, that Center street tracks will be burned off just above the concrete base in which they are set and that the section of paving between the tracks will be removed and relaid in line with the proper crown for the street.

Removal rather than covering with a resurfacing material, it appeared in the discussion to be the policy looked on with most favor. Only where the entire street is to be resurfaced as will be done on North Main street next year is the raise in the street officials said.

Council passed legislation to meet the legal requirements of the state road commission regarding a two cent tax for the poor relief fund. Transfer Safety Director Emery Murphy said, brought the total amount transferred from the gasoline tax fund to the poor relief fund this year to $8,000.

An appropriation of $150 was made to pay for two carloads of coal for the fire department. Funds were available for this, but had not been appropriated officials said.

Mayor's Report

Mayor W. C. Phillians through a report submitted by City Clerk S. H. Keber, submitted September receipts totaling $122.50. Included in the total were a $50 circus parade license, $60 in other licenses including fees paid by the Yellow Taxi Co. for operation of its cabs in the city, $7.50 for building permits, $4 for registration.

A report showing that hardness of the city water varied from a high of 11.5 grains a gallon on Oct. 7 to a low of 9.6 grains on Sept. 27, during the period of Sept. 27 to Oct. 9, was approved by council. Hardness of the water must be less than 12 grains to comply with the Marion Water Co. franchise.

Women's Club Studies England

England was the program topic for the meeting of the Women's club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. P. Robinson of north of Marion. A paper on "The Cathedral Towns," prepared by Mrs. W. L. Warner was read by Miss Grace Durfee. Mrs. Ward H. Bones discussed "The Castles and Country Homes" and Mrs. Arthur Brooks presented a paper on "The English Countryside and Its People."

CARS DAMAGED IN MISHAP HERE

Slight damage to two automobiles resulted from an accident yesterday about 6 p. m. on North Main street at the intersection of an alley, police reported today. The cars were driven by George Klingel of 466 North Prospect street and Ryan Windom of Bucyrus, rural route No. 5.

Klingel, the police report said, was driving north on North Main street and started to turn left into the alley when the Windom car struck his car.
